House Okay Due In Raise For Military

Legislation Would Double Total That Johnson Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was expected to override administration objections and approve today a $1-billion military pay increase bill — double what President Johnson proposed.

The raise would average 10.7 per cent with the biggest share going to enlisted men—including recruits and draftees—and junior officers. Its aim is to attract and keep skilled men in uniform.

There was no organized opposition in sight as the measure carried endorsements from both sides of the aisle. It appeared that the administration's only chance to cut down the measure would be in the Senate, which will take up the bill after the House votes its approval.

The measure was whipped out by the House Armed Services Committee on a 33-1 vote, approved by the Rules Committee and endorsed by the House Republican Policy Committee — despite Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's campaign for the administration bill.

The administration proposed a 4.8 per cent average increase totaling $448 million a year. McNamara said this would be fair to the servicemen and fair "to our taxpayers."

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee didn't agree. The South Carolina Democrat called the administration bill "disgracefully inadequate."

The differences between Rivers and McNamara go more deeply than pay. Since he became chairman in January, Rivers has clashed with McNamara over the authority of Congress to oversee military programs under its constitutional powers to "raise and support armies."

This power struggle was mirrored in the committee's rejection of the administration's proposal that it be given authority to make annual adjustments in military pay subject only to a congressional veto.

This, stormed Rivers, would be a vote of no confidence in Congress. As a compromise, the committee bill calls for the administration to submit an annual military pay review to Congress, with a complete revision of the pay structure to be submitted every four years, beginning in January 1967.

3 Americans Die During Fierce Duel

Several More Are Wounded In Battle In Saigon Region

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Troops of the newly arrived U.S. 1st Division were attacked by the Viet Cong for the first time during the night and three Americans were killed, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said several more Americans were wounded in the attack that began with a mortar barrage against forward elements of the division's 2nd Brigade outside the Bien Hoa air base 12 miles northeast of Saigon.

The 1st Division troops had arrived in Viet Nam last week. It was the first action in Viet Nam for the "Big Red One" division that made an enviable record in Africa and Europe during World War II.

"I had been through Korea and I thought I was a combat veteran until last night," said Maj. B. McJilton of Fort Worth, Tex. "I had never seen fighting like that before."

Another veteran, Sgt. 1.C. Raymond N. Simmons of Jackson, Tenn., compared the Viet Cong attack to action around the Hurtgen Forest, in Germany, in 1945.

U.S. planes pushed the war deeper into North Viet Nam today, bombing a 10-mile stretch of railroad track starting 15 miles north of Yen Bay and 90 miles northwest of Hanoi, a U.S. spokesman announced.

It was the deepest penetration of North Vietnamese territory announced so far. Results of the raid were not reported.

A U.S. Navy jet bomber was shot down over North Viet Nam Sunday a short time after U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara watched it roar off along with 13 others from the catapults of the 7th Fleet carrier Independence, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said the two crew members of the A6 Intruder were seen to parachute and land on the ground. He said a search operation for them was abandoned today and it was presumed they were captured.

North Viet Nam claimed its gunners shot down three U.S. planes Sunday and captured two pilots. It said one plane was downed over Haiphong. North Viet Nam's chief port 60 miles east of Hanoi.

Double Farewell

Final Services Conducted For Stevenson In Illinois

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson goes to his final rest today.

A double farewell was arranged by his old hometown — a community memorial service for 8,000 in the Horton Fieldhouse of Illinois State University followed by funeral rites in the Unitarian church.

Invitations to the church service went to President and Mrs. Johnson, Vice President and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren and others for a ceremony limited by the 200-person capacity to the family and close friends and officials.

In a speech written for the community gathering, Dr. Richard Browne, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, hailed Stevenson with these words:

"As the United States ambassador (to the United Nations), he became not only the spokesman of this country but the voice of peace and reason for all the peoples of the world."

He also saluted Stevenson as "statesman for all the world."

Police blocked off streets along the route from the church to 112-year-old Evergreen Memorial Cemetery.

The grave was prepared there in a corner of the family plot. The tranquil glade is marked by a tall, square-cut monument that bears the name of four members of the family, topped by that of Adlai Ewing Stevenson, vice president of the United States in the second administration of President Grover Cleveland.

He was the grandfather of Adlai E. Stevenson, who governed Illinois, ran losing races for the presidency on the Democratic ticket in 1952 and 1956 and served as ambassador to the United Nations until a heart attack killed him Wednesday in London.

Thousands of persons filed past Stevenson's flag - draped casket in the church Sunday at the rate of 700 or more an hour.

Brown managed to crawl out from under the rig.

The men were returning from Highlandtown.

Baker was sounding the truck's horn for while after the mishap, but the horn had been silent for about 20 minutes, indicating he apparently was unconscious, witnesses reported.

Brief To Be Filed

State Wants Sam Back In Pen Now

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state prepared to file a brief today asking that Dr. Sam Sheppard be returned to prison immediately.

Asst. Atty. Gen. David Kessler said the state's move, if granted, would return Sheppard to Ohio Penitentiary while an expected appeal by Sheppard moves to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Kessler said the state is asking the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati to issue its mandate backing up its refusal last week to give Sheppard a rehearing.

Kessler said the state's action "could conceivably mean" the much-publicized Sheppard will be returned to prison this week.

Sheppard and his second wife, meanwhile, marked their first wedding anniversary Sunday at Cleveland, uneasy about his possible return to prison.

"It helps keep your mind off things," the 42-year-old Sheppard said Sunday as he watched his wife, Ariane, climb from a motel owner's pool. They had gone there for privacy.

The 36-year-old West German divorcee, clad in a polka dot bikini, added:

"We're under such a strain waiting to see what will happen next."

Sheppard married Ariane in Chicago last July, two days after his court-ordered release from Ohio Penitentiary on $10,000 bond. They had corresponded and fallen in love while he was serving a life term for the murder of his first wife in 1954.

The former Bay Village osteopath expects to learn this week whether he may remain free while his famous murder case is appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

A federal appeals court in Cincinnati last Wednesday ruled, for the second time, that Sheppard's release was in error and ordered him returned to jail. His attorneys have asked the Cincinnati court for a stay of that order.

Rhee, Ex-Korean Leader, Taken In Honolulu At 90

He was 90, in failing health for at least three years.

The former South Korean president's last wish was "to go home and die," but increasing debility prevented his return.

The founder of the Korean Republic was admitted to Queen's Hospital a month ago today after he began bleeding internally. His condition improved and he was sent back to the nursing home.

Doctors said they had an hour's indication that death was near, giving them time to summon his Austrian - born wife, Francesca, 65, and his adopted son, Rhee In-soo.

Unfulfilled was his life's ambition and dream—unification of Korea as a republic. The mountainous peninsula on Asia's east coast still is divided along the truce line where the bloody Korean War was halted in 1953.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced but they will be held at Korean Christian Church of Honolulu, center of worship for much of Honolulu's small Korean community.

Thirty-four Communist parties of all shades of opinion are represented at the five-day meeting, which opened today. This reflects Romania's avowed neutrality in the Soviet - Chinese squabble.

Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev headed the Russian delegation. The Chinese delegation was led by Teng Hsiao-ping, secretary general of the Chinese party and considered by many to be No. 5 in the Peking hierarchy.

Other top Communist leaders on hand include East Germany's Walter Ulbricht, Bulgarian Premier Todor Zhivkov and Yugoslavia's Edward Kardelj, widely regarded as President Tito's heir apparent.

Some Western diplomats believed the meeting might bring an attempt by the new Soviet leadership to patch up the quarrel with Peking. There also was speculation over the possibility of a new open clash between the two camps.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: Why not make yourself a little Heloise Mad Box?

It works wonders when something has got your danger up.

We all get so mad and loaded with frustrations that some days we think we are going to explode. Sometimes the things that cause us to explode one day, won't even bother us the next day. They seem so simple, and we wonder why in this wide, wide world we got mad, and said things we are sorry for, because once we say something, we can't take it back!

Here's what I do:

When I get mad, I go to my typewriter (if you haven't one, use pencil and paper) and put down all the little irritating things.

THEN HIDE YOUR LETTERS!

Write them to your husband and children (each one separately) but keep them hidden in your secret Mad Box and never deliver them.

Don't look at those letter for at least four days ! ! ! Then take some more paper and a pencil, go into your bathroom or bedroom, lock the door and rewrite the letter or letters.

See how much shorter it is? And you can bet that nine times out of ten, you'll tear them all up.

MY MAD BOX idea is in two parts and the second part is my Worry Box.

List all your worries on a piece of paper. This includes bills, overexpenditures, payments, cleaning that needs to be done, Johnnie's shot that hasn't been taken care of, kitchen that needs new paint, the noisy muffler on the car, water heater which needs replacing, worn rug, etc., etc.

Oh, I could write forever about all the troubles you and I have had. You just make your very own list.

You can also make a Heloise-about - to - worry list and keep this separate. This second list you can share with your husband eventually, but not for a few months! Then explain it to him.

SO, WHY don't you start your own personal Mad Box? I think you will find it invaluable. No one will see it except you. You can rework it every few days and cross off your worries as they are solved—watch that list dwindle. Psychiatrists with whom I have talked agree with me that nine-tenths of the things we worry about never come to pass.

I promise that the day will come when you will find that most of your troubles will be answered by yourself — which is the best way in the world.

And when we need help, let's go to the Good Lord and ask His help. He will give us comfort.

Try my method. It works!

Look at the good things that happened today! And tomorrow is yet to come!

I love you dearly and always understand, so write any time.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Sometimes badminton or volleyball nets rot or wear out.

So—here it comes, Heloise. Get some of that nylon net and measure from the old net for size. (Use about four thicknesses.) I bind the edges with bias binding to reinforce the net, and to make it easier to see.

Also, some nets are skimpy, so I make the new ones wider.

Deputies Called After Commotion Over Jamboree

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—Fifteen sheriff's deputies were called in to quiet a commotion among 3,000 persons at a national jamboree apparently irked over cancellation of events for the last day.

Officials said tempers of Citizen Band Clubs flared Sunday when jamboree officials failed to pay off on what had been advertised as "over $5,000 in fabulous prizes."

Lorain County Sheriff Vernon M. Smith appeared at the El Rey Grotto Park with deputies to investigate. Twelve state highway patrolmen also showed up.

The sheriff said an announcement over a loudspeaker that remaining jamboree events would be canceled angered the big gathering of hobbyists, many of whom came from Florida and California. The events included dancing and awarding of additional prizes.

Associates of Ray C. Moore, promoter and president of the Lorain County Caravan Club, reported he suffered a heart attack and was taken from the park. Moore's wife told newsmen later he was completely exhausted and unable to make any statement.

Moore had predicted 90,000 persons would attend the weekend jamboree, but the estimated attendance failed to approach 4,000.

Jamboree officials said cash prizes were supposed to have been given for winners in three beauty contests and a number of other events.

Officers Are Elected By Trainmen's Group

CHARLESTON (AP) — The West Virginia Association of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen reelected W. R. Rapp of Hugheston as chairman here at the close of a weekend convention.

Also re-elected to new terms were Eugene DeBarr of Clarksburg, vice chairman; B. B. Brown Jr. of Mullens, secretary; and Roy Prichard of Welch, treasurer.

The association also voted to conduct next year's convention at Huntington.

A Huntington woman, Mrs. Louise Johnson, was elected co-chairman, representing the women's Auxiliary on the association's board.

Garden Thief Digs Potatoes

Brady DeVore, 1717 Alpha St., complained to police Sunday that a thief dug up and carried away approximately three bushels of potatoes from his garden in the Little England section.

DeVore said the potatoes were stolen sometime Saturday night or early Sunday. Patrolman Orin C. Smith investigated after the report was filed about 10:30 a.m. yesterday. He said there have been several other instances of thefts from DeVore's garden in the last week.

Officers also investigated several more theft and vandalism cases over the weekend.

Wilbur Wolfe, 2113 Michigan Ave., told officers Saturday night at 11:25 that a 100-foot garden hose on his property was cut in two places by young vandals. He said he has been annoyed several times in the last few weeks by boys placing nails under the tires of his auto and shooting an air rifle at his home.

Loretta Ruth Shreve of Dewey Ave. told officers the right front vent window in her auto was broken while the car was parked on College St. between 8:15 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. Saturday.

She said she found her car had been moved about 10 feet from its original parking place. There were dirty hand prints on the seat of the car, but apparently nothing was taken, she said.

Mrs. Mary Buzzard, 2108 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext., told police Saturday at 2:40 p. m. that a thief entered her home sometime between 11 p. m. Friday and 2 p. m. Saturday, cracking a window and stealing two packs of cigarettes.

She said the thief entered via a window on the west side of the home which is about nine feet off the ground.

Fire Damages Cycle

SALINEVILLE — A motorcycle of Daniel Mouse of R. D. 3 was damaged by fire late Sunday afternoon, Fire Chief Tony Brandonisio said. A short circuit in the ignition wires was blamed for the blaze, which broke out in the cycle in the yard at the Mouse home.

Team buttered cooked fresh green peas with buttered, peeled new potatoes to serve with a Sunday roast of beef, lamb or veal.

committee of Korean community officials handling the services, said Rhee will be buried in Seoul, Korea.

On June 21 Rhee was removed from Korean President Chung Hee Park's political purge list. However, Rhee had been invited back to his homeland before but declining health prevented it.

The former "Tiger of Korea" was tamed by age. Once a driving chief executive who defied communism and the United Nations, he became a homesick and tired old man.

A nurse said Rhee was kept alive by a dwindling hope of going home to die.

This hope seemed to be the only strength he had left. His health, his stamina and the power he once wielded faded when student riots toppled him from the presidency.

Rhee was the Korean republic's first president and served in the job 12 years. He had just been re-elected to a fourth term when his government was overthrown. Charges of ballot box stuffing, strongarm influence and trickery were hurled at the white-haired president.

He fled the country after protests erupted into violence.

Unidentified Flying Objects

This apparently is going to be another summer full of "unidentified flying objects," as the Air Force describes them.

The reason they are called this is because they are objects that appear in space and cannot be identified. The Air Force checks out all reports that refer to them and, with few exceptions, it says, finds they either did not exist or were something that could have been identified if those who saw it had been better informed.

In any event, it is out of the question that the objects are unearthly. There is no cause for alarm.

The scene now shifts to Mars, where sensitive equipment has picked up an object approaching at a distance close enough for easy interception by interstellar "Marships," as they are called.

There is no reason to be alarmed, it is pointed out, because the object obviously is harmless. It looks like some variant of a machine for reproducing likenesses of images.

It could not have come from Earth, of course, because Martians know that life, as they enjoy it, would be impossible on Earth, which has nothing on it to breathe, except oxygen.

Moreover, if life did exist on earth, by some weird mischance, it would be at the level of grubs and woolly worms. If it were anywhere near a Martian level of existence, Earthlings would have visited Mars. It is, after all, only an afternoon's journey in the life span of a Martian.

Therefore the object approaching Mars must be an Deifitnedinu Gniylf Tcejbo, which any Martian knows is an object that cannot be identified because no one knows how to spell it or pronounce it.

Lisbon Lives It Up

Lisbon's Railroad Centennial got off to a rousing start over the weekend, with the selection of a queen and her court and dedication of the post office.

And as the old showboat captain would have put it, "It's only the beginnin', folks," with a varied schedule of events lined up for this week, climaxed by a mock Civil War battle Sunday.

A lot of planning has gone into the program and if the weatherman cooperates it should be a gala occasion.

Our best wishes to those who take pride in calling picturesque and lovely Lisbon home and who are living it up as the past and present unite in a happy observance.

Safest Auto In The World

Nothing is of more immediate interest to more Americans than the millions of autos they drive.

No legislative hearing could have more direct impact than the one on highway safety headed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut. As a former governor of a state which has worked hard to give motorists maximum safety, Sen. Ribicoff possesses more expertise than most people interested in highway safety.

He is on shaky ground, however, when he makes it appear that auto manufacturers are to blame for a significant portion of traffic deaths and injuries; that they should build more safety into their cars.

Safety must be built into drivers.

The safest auto in the world — and Sen. Ribicoff could build it to his own specifications — would be dangerous in the hands of a fool, a drunk, a reckless kid with no judgment, a demented person, or a driver using a car and a highway to take out his spite against the world.

The most dangerous car in the world, on the other hand, would be safe in the hands of a driver who knew what he was doing.

Or in the case of a bad collision, the safest car in the world could be demolished and its passengers slaughtered.

Accidents do not just happen. They are caused. In nearly every instance, they are caused by bad drivers, not bad cars.

The auto industry cannot be held responsible for bad drivers — not until a genius invents a device that will knock them out with one blow, park their cars off the road and throw away the keys.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

It is strange that at your age you should express interest in motorcycles, because most of us went through that stage several decades ago. But you probably were only trying to be polite because I told you I once owned a motorcycle for about a week.

What started our conversation about motor bikes, of course, were the recent motorcycle riots at various places. My motorcycle was a riot all right, but not the kind we were talking about.

The way I came to own one was that I quit a job in a city 500 miles from home, had a month's pay of $65 in my pocket, needed transportation home and was beyond reach of a parental restraint.

I changed $1 into nickels and phoned all the used motorcycle dealers in Chicago. Remember when a pay station phone call cost a nickel?

This one guy said yes he had a motorcycle he wanted to sell for $35. It had a sidecar, but that would have spoiled the dream of riding a real two-wheeled job, so he agreed to take off the sidecar and in exchange put a carrier rack on the back wheel to hold my small suitcase.

When asked how fast it would go he said, "About 45, but I could tune it up to go faster," so I hastened to tell him not to bother, because 45 top speed was just about right.

BECAUSE of the sidecar, this motorcycle had a spring clutch which required foot pressure to keep it disengaged if standing still with the thing in gear. The sidecar enabled the rider to keep his foot on the clutch any time without needing to put his foot on the ground for balance. But with the sidecar gone, the clutch still required a foot on it.

Thus it was that at a stop light I shifted into gear while waiting for the light to change and the blamed machine started to tip toward the side where my foot had to stay on the clutch.

While trying to decide whether to fall over while keeping my foot on the clutch, reflex action asserted itself, my foot came off the clutch and the vehicle leaped forward right into the bumper on the car ahead of me.

Bang went my front tire into the bumper and then bounced back. Bang again and bounced back. Bang again and then providentially the engine stalled. Bystanders on the sidewalk chuckled.

Then there was a rubberneck bus beside me at another stop light and just when the guide on the bus would launch into his spiel I would have to race the engine to keep it from stalling and the resulting thunderous roar would drown out the voice of the guide. He liked to kill me with his look and well-chosen denunciations.

Then there was the time the throttle wire came loose and I just managed to coast into a gas station.

Then there was the time a bee hit me in the lips and let go its stinger and I just managed to find my way through tear-laden eyes into another gas station to recuperate.

MY MOTHER told me a motorcycle would be like that. It was a riot all right.

A few days after I reached home, it was sold for just what I paid for it. Sure enough, a few weeks later while out in an automobile I came upon the new owner stalled with the thing and gave him a tow.

If and when you ever get a motorcycle, are you going to be a Rocker like in England or a Hells Angel like in the U.S., Twill? Such roles would be in keeping with your striving for youthfulness. Or are you just striving for eternal life?

The entire community anxiously awaits your answer.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

Wouldn't the simplest urban renewal be a law requiring every building which wasn't being properly maintained to be torn down within six months after official notice had been received and ignored? I'm just asking?

I think football is going to be overexposed, to its detriment, the same way baseball was when it became a hot item for radio and television. The next killing in professional sports will be made with a game not yet popular, like croquet. Golf, boxing, wrestling — they've all had it.

Speaking of home cooking, as people often do, I remember how good everything used to taste in the "bait box" I carried to work on summer jobs. Home cooking had nothing to do with jelly sandwiches. It was appetite, which accounts for all fond recollections of home cooking.

And wouldn't the quickest way to offset the attraction of shopping centers relative to downtown stores, be to require them to install parking meters, tow trucks, fines for overtime parking and spaces too small for full-size cars! I'm just asking.

One reason few Americans display flags is carping criticism by the observers who jump on everything they think is wrong about the way the flag is handled and displayed, instead of praising those who think enough of it to display it at all.

I can think of no reason to believe censorship is not as foolish and vicious in the current undeclared war as it has been in all former declared and undeclared wars. The government's aim is to conceal from its own citizens what the opposition can find out with no trouble.

I am still chuckling about the story that McDivitt closed the Gemini IV hatch while White was at the end of his tether, then inquired blandly when White beat on it with his fist and wanted to come in, "Who's there?"

It long has been a pet idea of mine that an officeholder who is being worked over unfairly by his critics has a right, almost an obligation, to resign—and that if this were done universally—there would be more substance and less rancor in criticism of public officials.

Prosperity Linked To Work Hours

By David Dubinsky

For his guest columnist today, Victor Riesel invited David Dubinsky to tell what labor's next objective will be. Here is the reply of the president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union who also is vice president of the AFL-CIO.

We are entering the age of leisure. Today we take the 5-day work week for granted. I see a time, not far in the future, when we will take the four-day work week for granted.

In the more than half century that I have been in the labor movement, America has moved toward the shorter work WEEK, the shorter work YEAR, and the shorter work LIFE. And it has been good for everybody—worker, employer and the country.

Recently, when I was in Hong Kong and found workers employed 7 days a week and 10 hours a day, I was reminded of the early times in our own country. In some industries in the U. S. half a century ago, employers posted signs: "If you don't come in Sunday, don't come in Monday."

OVER THE YEARS, Sunday work was abolished. We moved from the 6-day to the 5½-day week. By 1929, the standard work week stood at 50 hours. The newly abbreviated work week seemed a miracle to many, an improvement on the biblical injunction that six days shalt thou labor and on the seventh day thou shalt rest.

Then, as the market crashed in 1929, the country discovered that an even shorter work week was necessary. Up to then, the main cry for shorter hours was to protect the health of workers, to give parents a chance to see their own children. For decades needle trade workers, bent over their machines, sang the sad song of Morris Rosenfield, "My work drives me out early and brings me home late; oh, my own flesh is a stranger to me."

Then, after 1929, the movement was spurred on not by personal but by national tragedy. A shorter work week was needed to put America back to work. Between 1930 and 1940 the standard work week was reduced from 50 to 40 hours — for the health of the economy.

In our own garment industry, the 35-hour work week was first introduced in 1933 and is now standard for the union shops. This is true in other occupations, and the labor movement now asks for a federal law to set the standard at 35 hours for the country.

THE REASON is the same as in the 1930s, to find jobs in an economy where automation makes it possible for workers to produce more in less time. It's estimated that for every hour taken off the work week there would be another million jobs. Cut the work week from 40 to 35 and we move toward another five million jobs.

The main theme here is to turn automation into a blessing — not a curse. Let everyone work less, let more people work, and let all of us with the aid of technology live a little better.

A variation on the theme is the shorter work year. Thirty years ago, paid legal holidays were almost unknown for factory workers, for the so-called hourly workers as distinguished from the salaried white collar people. Today, 6, 7, and 8 holidays. Today, virtually all unions include paid vacations of two or more weeks in their contracts. In some industries, long sabbaticals of 13 weeks vacation are arranged for certain workers with long continuous employment.

AND WORK LIFE is shrinking. Once there was no retirement age for workers, for they had no income for retirement. When Social Security was established, workers at age 65 could begin to consider retirement. Then came union contracts to supplement the federal program. And as a result, a majority of those who retired last year were under the age of 65. And with the passage of a medicare program, early retirement will be further encouraged as the senior citizen feels he can meet the health needs for the older years.

As each of these forward steps has been taken, there always has been opposition. And the argument is always the same: "The shorter work week will run up production costs. This will force companies into bankruptcy and will throw people out of work."

The answer is simple. This has not happened. Just the opposite has happened. Suppose, in 1934, as we move toward recovery from the depression, we had lengthened the work week from 50 to 60. Would that have created jobs or wiped out jobs?

How fortunate our economy now is that the work week and the work year have been progressively reduced to make more jobs available. The 35-hour work week, by federal law, continues this logical and inevitable development.

THE IDEA behind a labor saving device is to save labor not to destroy labor. If science now makes it possible for us to to do in 35 hours what once took 60 hours (and we can do that and even more), then we ought to go to 35 hours and still live better than in the past.

Leisure time means rest for the worker and work for more workers. Sometimes we forget that some of the greatest industries in America are based on leisure time that people now enjoy. Just get out on the road some Saturday and Sunday and see all those cars on the highway driven by workers with leisure.

Stroll through wage earning neighborhoods some early evening to hear all those radios, record players, television sets enjoyed by people on the 8- and 7-hour work day.

Once we used to talk about the leisure class and the working class. But, in the last decades, we have been democratizing leisure. The more equitable distribution of free time is one of the great democratic revolutions of our day. It has spread jobs, has stimulated the economy, has improved the health of our citizens, has made better mothers and fathers, has given wage earners an opportunity to develop hobbies and to study, has given the common man the hours to find out what is going on in his country and to become a more intelligent and active citizen.

BECAUSE SOME of us believe that this trend is as inevitable as it is desirable, we see the 4-day week coming. It won't come all at once, just as the 35-hour work week has been a long time in the making. There is even now a trend, especially in some offices during the summer, to halt work at noon on Friday for the 2½-day weekend. The long 3-day weekend probably will come in bits and pieces, as all our other advances have come. But when it comes, it will be another pillar in our economy and in the American way of life.

The inevitable pressures for the shorter work week are ultimately bound to give the nation both the courage and the vision to move forward to the greater leisure that gives greater work.

Surfing began centuries ago as a contest among Hawaiian kings. Stakes were war canoes, pigs, and sometimes wives. Royal competitors had to be hefty just to maneuver the 14 - foot, 150 - pound hardwood boards. Not surprisingly, two of the best surfers were King Kamehameha, who was 6 feet, 6 inches tall and weighed 400 poundsn and his Queen Kaahamanu, only a few inches shorter and a few pounds lighter.

Opposition Lacking

By James Marlow

Johnson Has Things His Own Way

WASHINGTON

In all the political dreams of his life President Johnson probably never imagined anything like this: dominating the American scene with no real opposition in sight.

Johnson last year and President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936 won tremendous election victories and their Democrats, riding their coattails, got overwhelming control of Congress both times.

But Johnson has been shrewder than Roosevelt in the use he made of success and luck, for he had a little better luck than Roosevelt: the Republican party was split in the 1964 election and still is.

Now the divided Republicans are hardly any oppposition to him. Even their criticisms are barely audible.

When they do take after him occasionally, as on his handling of the Vietnamese war, it's not because of American involvement but because they want him to bomb harder.

This is a lot different from President Harry S. Truman's experience with the Korean war when, shortly after the United States got into it in 1950, Republicans opened up on him and kept on going.

Since his 1964 election Johnson has carefully done nothing to bristle Democrats or Republicans. In fact, except for a minor thrust once in a while, Johnson has been almost benevolent toward Republicans.

He pulls the strings on this Congress, letting nothing interfere with his determination to shove through what he wants. The result: Congress is running up one of its most impressive records.

With Roosevelt it was different. After his great win in 1936, he wrecked any chance for a stunning performance with his Democratic-run Congress by opening war on the Supreme Court.

That highly conservative court had been throwing out one important New Deal program after another. And on Feb. 7, 1937, less than three weeks after the new Congress took over, Roosevelt opened fire.

He sent a bill to the Capitol proposing drastic court reform, the so-called "court-packing" plan. He instantly ran into fierce dissent in all directions, including Democrats.

That 1937 Congress — unlike this one where Johnson keeps the machinery oiled for speed and performance — got tangled up for months over Roosevelt's proposal and then, in July, rejected it.

While Roosevelt lost this battle, he didn't lose the war. The court, apparently rendered self-conscious by the attacks by Roosevelt and others, switched and began upholding New Deal measures.

In May 1937, three months after Roosevelt began the fight, the court upheld the constitutionality of Social Security, one of the most revolutionary and far-reaching of all the New Deal programs.

But in Congress the court brawl and other dissensions so hampered legislation that in August 1937 it quit without having passed any major measure. In short, Roosevelt didn't handle it well at all.

When Roosevelt won the 1936 election by a landslide it was against a progressive but vague Republican, Alfred M. Landon, whose party was left shattered but not split.

But, luckily for Johnson, after his triumph over the highly conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964, the Republicans were left both shattered and split. And Johnson has taken full advantage of that.

India's Shastri

By Richard Spong

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri is in many respects a typical citizen of India. In one prime consideration he is most typical: he is the father of six children, exactly meeting the national average.

Until recently, Shastri refused to endorse birth control. Government support for family planning has amounted to only a fraction of the level called for in the third five-year plan. With a population of about 480 million, India is menaced by a population growth that greatly complicates a serious food shortage.

Prime Minister Shastri made a serious about face in a broadcast to the nation on July 1. Every year, he said, 12 million hungry mouths are added to the country's population while food production remains stagnant. Warning his people to be prepared for "greater discipline and hardship," Shastri at long last came out for intensive birth control.

A GOVERNMENT program to limit population growth was started in India as far back as 1951. The sum of $1.5 million was made available under the five-year plan instituted in that year. Under the current five-year plan, no less than $105 million was allocated to promotion of birth control.

As many as 1,800 family planning clinics were in operation in 1961 and a goal of 8,200 clinics was set for 1966. Family planning services are provided also in about a thousand general medical and health centers in India.

The magnitude of the task dwarfs efforts made to date. A poll taken in 1962 indicated that only one-half of 1 per cent of the people had ever heard of birth control.

India has undertaken a sterilization campaign in addition to the birth control drive. Several states offer small cash awards to volunteers for sterilization. But it has been estimated that 2 million sterilizations a year would be needed to stabilize the population at 600 million.

PERFORMANCE under government plans has lagged far behind schedule. The provisional planning program for 1963-64, the largest budget so far, according to a knowledgeable British source, was only 10 per cent of the minimum allocated for the program under the third five-year plan. Volunteer organizations are particularly critical. "We have to go to the government and beg for funds," one director says.

The latest hope is the introduction of interuterine devices (IUD). Pakistan has already begun a national family limitation program based on IUD's. The Indian government took an interest in the devices in 1962 after reports of their effectiveness had been given at the first international symposium on their use.

IUD's are cheaper and much more practicable than oral pills. They may provide the tools for a true mass birth control program. But opposition to family planning is strong, especially in India's villages. India's poor depend substantially on the labor of their children. Thus villagers attach great value to large families.

The United States has been shipping to India 600,000 tons of wheat a month. Even this has not been enough to feed the people or to forestall food riots.

Unidentified Flying Objects

This apparently is going to be another summer full of "unidentified flying objects," as the Air Force describes them.

The reason they are called this is because they are objects that appear in space and cannot be identified. The Air Force checks out all reports that refer to them and, with few exceptions, it says, finds they either did not exist or were something that could have been identified if those who saw it had been better informed.

In any event, it is out of the question that the objects are unearthly. There is no cause for alarm.

The scene now shifts to Mars, where sensitive equipment has picked up an object approaching at a distance close enough for easy interception by interstellar "Marships," as they are called.

There is no reason to be alarmed, it is pointed out, because the object obviously is harmless. It looks like some variant of a machine for reproducing likenesses of images.

It could not have come from Earth, of course, because Martians know that life, as they enjoy it, would be impossible on Earth, which has nothing on it to breathe, except oxygen.

Moreover, if life did exist on earth, by some weird mischance, it would be at the level of grubs and woolly worms. If it were anywhere near a Martian level of existence, Earthlings would have visited Mars. It is, after all, only an afternoon's journey in the life span of a Martian.

Therefore the object approaching Mars must be an Deifitnedinu Gniylf Tcejbo, which any Martian knows is an object that cannot be identified because no one knows how to spell it or pronounce it.

Lisbon Lives It Up

Lisbon's Railroad Centennial got off to a rousing start over the weekend, with the selection of a queen and her court and dedication of the post office.

And as the old showboat captain would have put it, "It's only the beginnin', folks," with a varied schedule of events lined up for this week, climaxed by a mock Civil War battle Sunday.

A lot of planning has gone into the program and if the weatherman cooperates it should be a gala occasion.

Our best wishes to those who take pride in calling picturesque and lovely Lisbon home and who are living it up as the past and present unite in a happy observance.

Safest Auto In The World

Nothing is of more immediate interest to more Americans than the millions of autos they drive.

No legislative hearing could have more direct impact than the one on highway safety headed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut. As a former governor of a state which has worked hard to give motorists maximum safety, Sen. Ribicoff possesses more expertise than most people interested in highway safety.

He is on shaky ground, however, when he makes it appear that auto manufacturers are to blame for a significant portion of traffic deaths and injuries; that they should build more safety into their cars.

Safety must be built into drivers.

The safest auto in the world — and Sen. Ribicoff could build it to his own specifications — would be dangerous in the hands of a fool, a drunk, a reckless kid with no judgment, a demented person, or a driver using a car and a highway to take out his spite against the world.

The most dangerous car in the world, on the other hand, would be safe in the hands of a driver who knew what he was doing.

Or in the case of a bad collision, the safest car in the world could be demolished and its passengers slaughtered.

Accidents do not just happen. They are caused. In nearly every instance, they are caused by bad drivers, not bad cars.

The auto industry cannot be held responsible for bad drivers — not until a genius invents a device that will knock them out with one blow, park their cars off the road and throw away the keys.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

It is strange that at your age you should express interest in motorcycles, because most of us went through that stage several decades ago. But you probably were only trying to be polite because I told you I once owned a motorcycle for about a week.

What started our conversation about motor bikes, of course, were the recent motorcycle riots at various places. My motorcycle was a riot all right, but not the kind we were talking about.

The way I came to own one was that I quit a job in a city 500 miles from home, had a month's pay of $65 in my pocket, needed transportation home and was beyond reach of a parental restraint.

I changed $1 into nickels and phoned all the used motorcycle dealers in Chicago. Remember when a pay station phone call cost a nickel?

This one guy said yes he had a motorcycle he wanted to sell for $35. It had a sidecar, but that would have spoiled the dream of riding a real two-wheeled job, so he agreed to take off the sidecar and in exchange put a carrier rack on the back wheel to hold my small suitcase.

When asked how fast it would go he said, "About 45, but I could tune it up to go faster," so I hastened to tell him not to bother, because 45 top speed was just about right.

BECAUSE of the sidecar, this motorcycle had a spring clutch which required foot pressure to keep it disengaged if standing still with the thing in gear. The sidecar enabled the rider to keep his foot on the clutch any time without needing to put his foot on the ground for balance. But with the sidecar gone, the clutch still required a foot on it.

Thus it was that at a stop light I shifted into gear while waiting for the light to change and the blamed machine started to tip toward the side where my foot had to stay on the clutch.

While trying to decide whether to fall over while keeping my foot on the clutch, reflex action asserted itself, my foot came off the clutch and the vehicle leaped forward right into the bumper on the car ahead of me.

Bang went my front tire into the bumper and then bounced back. Bang again and bounced back. Bang again and then providentially the engine stalled. Bystanders on the sidewalk chuckled.

Then there was a rubberneck bus beside me at another stop light and just when the guide on the bus would launch into his spiel I would have to race the engine to keep it from stalling and the resulting thunderous roar would drown out the voice of the guide. He liked to kill me with his look and well-chosen denunciations.

Then there was the time the throttle wire came loose and I just managed to coast into a gas station.

Then there was the time a bee hit me in the lips and let go its stinger and I just managed to find my way through tear-laden eyes into another gas station to recuperate.

MY MOTHER told me a motorcycle would be like that. It was a riot all right.

A few days after I reached home, it was sold for just what I paid for it. Sure enough, a few weeks later while out in an automobile I came upon the new owner stalled with the thing and gave him a tow.

If and when you ever get a motorcycle, are you going to be a Rocker like in England or a Hells Angel like in the U.S., Twill? Such roles would be in keeping with your striving for youthfulness. Or are you just striving for eternal life?

The entire community anxiously awaits your answer.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

With Roosevelt it was different. After his great win in 1936, he wrecked any chance for a stunning performance with his Democratic-run Congress by opening war on the Supreme Court.

That highly conservative court had been throwing out one important New Deal program after another. And on Feb. 7, 1937, less than three weeks after the new Congress took over, Roosevelt opened fire.

He sent a bill to the Capitol proposing drastic court reform, the so-called "court-packing" plan. He instantly ran into fierce dissent in all directions, including Democrats.

That 1937 Congress — unlike this one where Johnson keeps the machinery oiled for speed and performance — got tangled up for months over Roosevelt's proposal and then, in July, rejected it.

While Roosevelt lost this battle, he didn't lose the war. The court, apparently rendered self-conscious by the attacks by Roosevelt and others, switched and began upholding New Deal measures.

In May 1937, three months after Roosevelt began the fight, the court upheld the constitutionality of Social Security, one of the most revolutionary and far-reaching of all the New Deal programs.

But in Congress the court brawl and other dissensions so hampered legislation that in August 1937 it quit without having passed any major measure. In short, Roosevelt didn't handle it well at all.

When Roosevelt won the 1936 election by a landslide it was against a progressive but vague Republican, Alfred M. Landon, whose party was left shattered but not split.

But, luckily for Johnson, after his triumph over the highly conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964, the Republicans were left both shattered and split. And Johnson has taken full advantage of that.

India's Shastri

By Richard Spong

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri is in many respects a typical citizen of India. In one prime consideration he is most typical: he is the father of six children, exactly meeting the national average.

Until recently, Shastri refused to endorse birth control. Government support for family planning has amounted to only a fraction of the level called for in the third five-year plan. With a population of about 480 million, India is menaced by a population growth that greatly complicates a serious food shortage.

Prime Minister Shastri made a serious about face in a broadcast to the nation on July 1. Every year, he said, 12 million hungry mouths are added to the country's population while food production remains stagnant. Warning his people to be prepared for "greater discipline and hardship," Shastri at long last came out for intensive birth control.

A GOVERNMENT program to limit population growth was started in India as far back as 1951. The sum of $1.5 million was made available under the five-year plan instituted in that year. Under the current five-year plan, no less than $105 million was allocated to promotion of birth control.

As many as 1,800 family planning clinics were in operation in 1961 and a goal of 8,200 clinics was set for 1966. Family planning services are provided also in about a thousand general medical and health centers in India.

The magnitude of the task dwarfs efforts made to date. A poll taken in 1962 indicated that only one-half of 1 per cent of the people had ever heard of birth control.

India has undertaken a sterilization campaign in addition to the birth control drive. Several states offer small cash awards to volunteers for sterilization. But it has been estimated that 2 million sterilizations a year would be needed to stabilize the population at 600 million.

PERFORMANCE under government plans has lagged far behind schedule. The provisional planning program for 1963-64, the largest budget so far, according to a knowledgeable British source, was only 10 per cent of the minimum allocated for the program under the third five-year plan. Volunteer organizations are particularly critical. "We have to go to the government and beg for funds," one director says.

The latest hope is the introduction of interuterine devices (IUD). Pakistan has already begun a national family limitation program based on IUD's. The Indian government took an interest in the devices in 1962 after reports of their effectiveness had been given at the first international symposium on their use.

IUD's are cheaper and much more practicable than oral pills. They may provide the tools for a true mass birth control program. But opposition to family planning is strong, especially in India's villages. India's poor depend substantially on the labor of their children. Thus villagers attach great value to large families.

The United States has been shipping to India 600,000 tons of wheat a month. Even this has not been enough to feed the people or to forestall food riots.

A 29-year-old motorist was cited on a reckless driving charge after his auto plunged off a North Side Street early Sunday and damaged the lawn at a home.

Herman L. Cowdery, 530 Maple St., told Patrolman David Mumaw his auto went out of control about 2:44 a. m. as he rounded a Jennings Ave. curve, sliding sideways and going over an embankment onto the lawn at the home of D. G. Wilkinson, 1720 Jennings Ave., city income tax commissioner.

Cowdery said he was driving west on Jennings about 25 miles an hour when the car went out of control. The mishap damaged the left rocker panel of the 1959 hardtop sedan and also may have damaged the undercarriage, police reported.

Cowdery was fined $25 and costs at a hearing this morning before Judge Samuel Chertoff in Municipal Court.

A home was damaged slightly in another mishap Saturday at 12:25 p. m. on Ravine St. 80 feet north of Blakeley St., officers said.

A parked auto owned by Gerald H. Duffy, 1736 Holliday St., drifted on the grade and hit a porch at the home of Mrs. Grace McVeigh, 170 Ravine St., police reported.

Duffy told Patrolman Paul A. Burson Jr. he had just parked his car at the curb at 172 Ravine St., set the handbrake and started to walk away when he saw the auto was drifting backwards.

Duffy ran to the car and succeeded in stopping it just as the rear bumper hit the porch at the McVeigh home, causing minor damage, officers said.

TWO CARS were damaged in a collision Saturday about 4:15 p. m. on Washington St. 40 feet south of Potters Alley, officers said.

The collision involved a parked 1963 convertible owned by Charles E. Clark, 301 Penn Ave., Midland, and a 1959 model auto operated by Pete Schettino of Youngstown.

Schettino backed from an angle parking spot and bumped the Clark car, ploice said.

There was damage to the right front fender of the Midland auto and the rear of the Youngstown car, police said.

A hit - skip car damaged a parked car Sunday morning on Mulberry St., police said.

Roy S. Cox of Hookstown R.D. 1 said the left front fender and headlight rim of his 1954 four-door sedan were damaged by another auto whose driver did not halt. He said the damage occurred sometime between 3 and 7 a. m. Sunday.

—:—

TWO WOMEN complained of headaches after the car in which they were riding was involved in a collision with a tractor rig Sunday at 1:12 p. m. at W. 8th and Jefferson Sts., police reported.

The mishap involved a 1962 model auto operated by Iva H. Pethtel, 66, of 1102 Pennsylvania Ave. and a 1963 model tractor rig driven by Berney Tighan Jr., 40, of Lebanon, Va., officers said.

Mrs. Pethtel and a passenger, Alma Bailey, 50, of Scott Depot, W. Va., complained of headaches and said they would consult a physician, police reported.

Mrs. Pethtel told Patrolman L. E. Richard she went through a green traffic light and started to turn onto W. 8th St. when the rig struck her auto.

Tighan reported the light was in his favor. He said he saw the auto descending Jefferson St. and halted his rig, but the auto hit the truck.

Woman At Palestine Fined $75 For Theft

EAST PALESTINE — Miss Annette Wells, 23, of Rogers Addition was fined $75 and costs and sentenced to five days in jail by Mayor Robert Harding Saturday night on a charge of petty larceny.

She was taken into custody by police Saturday after the Rukenbrod Market of N. Market St. reported the theft of a large order of groceries destined for Mackall's Restaurant.

The woman had been seen near the rear of the store and the groceries were found in her car by officers between the store and her home, police said.

Saw Holdup Men, Woman Declares

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—The wife of a department store maintenance man robbed Saturday of $13,000 says she remembers seeing two of the three holdup men standing outside the store a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Mildred Pennington, 50, a clerk at the M. O'Neil Co. Department Store, said Sunday night she was parked in front of the store late Saturday when the robbers drove away in a getaway car. She was waiting for her husband, unaware he was inside handcuffed.

Her husband, Leonard, 48, a store employe for 13 years, was inside waiting for a police escort to take him to the bank with the day's receipts when he was robbed.

Police said the holdup men apparently hid in the basement of the store when it closed, then overpowered Pennington five minutes before his escort arrived.

Pennington told investigators one man held a gun at his forehead while another dragged him to a railing near the front door and handcuffed him there.

Mrs. Pennington said she saw three men flee in a 1963 bronze car found abandoned later five miles north of Massillon. Police say it was stolen Saturday morning in the Ravenna area.

By Committee In Assembly

Action's Set To Resume On School Program Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 106th Ohio General Assembly begins what leaders hope will be its last week today with numerous major proposals still due for action.

The main key to adjournment is the House-approved school foundation bill which the Senate Education Committee chairman says will have to undergo considerable change.

The chairman, Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-Lawrence, has called for resumption of hearings tonight on the measure to earmark $625 million for education in the 1965-67 biennium.

Collins said he is contemplating changes that would provide for better equalization in the distribution of funds to "rich" and "poor" school districts. He said another $15 million—$20 million would have to be added to the measure "to make any satisfactory adjustments at all."

The legislators also face the likelihood of an eleventh-hour effort to get approval of a new legislative apportionment plan.

Other major matters still unresolved include a Senate-passed bill to allow sale of liquor on Sunday, the so-called fair housing bill, implementation of the voter-approved $290 million capital improvements bill, a measure to ban sales of milk and dairy products below cost, a conference committee to resolve differences in House and Senate versions of a bill to tighten the state's coal strip mining laws, and a Senate-approved measure to extend public school bus transportation to private and parochial school pupils.

Sen. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-Mahoning, called on Gov. James A. Rhodes over the weekend to use his office to boost passage of the school bus measure.

In a telegram, Gilmartin noted that the measure, now bogged down in a House subcommittee, had the support of the governor when it was considered in the Senate.

"We hope you were sincere," Gilmartin said.

The Senate was expected to reject today or Tuesday House amendments to the strip mining law revisions.

Sen. Edmund A. Sargus, D-Belmont, objected to amendments which struck from the measures provisions for the state to deny licenses for mining on nonreclaimable land and doubling the bond on land judged difficult to reclaim.

Vote On Pact Today

CLEVELAND (AP)—Striking East Ohio Gas Co. employes throughout northeast Ohio vote today on a new two-year contract agreement reached by negotiators last week.

John Nagle, president of Local 555, Natural Gas Workers Union, which has been on strike since June 15, said the union's executive committee approved the proposal Friday but is making no recommendation to the membership. Details of the contract were not made public.

Girl By Name Of Grace Likes The Job Corps

CLEVELAND (AP)—Until a month ago Grace never had been out of West Virginia, never had seen a big city—or a freeway.

At 18 she hadn't been in school for four years. "Never did like it, and when I saw that F in Arithmetic (8th grade), I didn't want to go back."

Now Grace is studying arithmetic at Cleveland's $4 million Job Corps center for women, which she describes as "the wonderfulest place." And to her surprise, she finds she likes Arithmetic.

Grace stole a pleased glance at her corsage of pink carnations. It identified her as one of the girl guides who conducted about 500 visitors on an open house tour Sunday of the six-story brick building which is now her home.

Like many of 290 other girls 16 through 21 who are enrolled at the Job Corps center—one of five in the nation—Grace admits she's homesick.

"I'd like to see my family, and I'd like to climb the big hill back of our house on a nice day like today, and just look," she said. "You can see the town, and it's seven miles away."

But Grace vows she will stay on the Job Corps center and use the chance the war on poverty has given her to learn a job skill. She wants to be a beautician.

Mrs. Mary M. Chambers, executive director of the Cleveland Job Corps center and a former Biology professor at Alabama A&M in Normal, Ala., said the dropout rate is 13.5 per cent—about five per cent under the national average for such a program. Only three girls have been asked to resign.

While it's still too early to te" how well objectives will be met, officials at the center are happy with the way the program has begun. It started with arrival of 46 young women April 29, and enrollment now is 290. Another 35 are expected soon to bring the center to its capacity of 325.

The girls, averaging 19 years in age, come from 27 states. There are some Ohioans, but none from Cleveland or close by.

Training periods will vary from six months to two years, depending on educational background and chosen vocation, as well as aptitude. The average stay is expected to be about a year.

Drivers Cited By Patrol As Trucks Crash

Two truckers were cited Sunday after a collision near Lisbon, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol, which today continued investigation of a reported collision on old Route 30 in California Hollow.

A semi-trailer rig operated by Harold Franks, 19, of Mount Pleasant, Pa., struck the rear of another driven by Martin Rohovsky, 49, of Youngstown yesterday morning on Route 30 just east of Lisbon.

Officers said Franks' brakes failed while both rigs, part of a carnival firm, were headed toward Lisbon. Franks was cited for defective brakes and Rohovsky was charged with operating an unsafe vehicle.

Officers continued investigation of a collision reported by Ralph Schroeder Jr., of 1656 Cleveland Ave. early Sunday morning on old Route 30 about a third of a mile north of the city limits.

Schroeder's family reported another car struck his, then left the scene of the crash.

James Jenkins, 19, of Sprucevale Rd. was cited Sunday in connection with a mishap on the Sprucevale Rd. early Saturday morning.

Officers said Jenkins' 1953 coach went off the roadway and hit a utility pole near a narrow bridge. He was cited yesterday for leaving the scene of an accident.

Sweet Adelines Set Grange Engagement

A future engagement was accepted when Sweet Adelines, Inc., met Friday night at the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex. Twenty attended.

The group will present a program at the meeting of the Big Knob Grange, near Fariview on Sept. 1.

Mrs. Hilda Edgar, social chairman, discussed further plans for the annual family picnic Aug. 21 at Thompson Park.

Mrs. Nancy Beaver, director, conducted the practice with the assistance of Miss Norma Jones, assistant director.

The next session will be held Friday.

Cooking Hints

After yeast dough is kneaded and put into a greased bowl for its first rising, it should be turned so that the top of the dough will be greased. Or if you prefer, don't turn, but lightly grease the top of the dough with a pastry brush dipped in melted fat.

Company dish: pound boned chicken breasts so they are thin, then add a stuffing and secure ends with wooden picks. Bake in a slow oven, basting with melted butter for about three-quarters of an hour.

When you grill frankfurters you can leave them whole and "as is," or you can split them. If you use the latter method, don't split the franks all the way through; leave the two halves hinged.

Action's Set To Resume On School Program Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 106th Ohio General Assembly begins what leaders hope will be its last week today with numerous major proposals still due for action.

The main key to adjournment is the House-approved school foundation bill which the Senate Education Committee chairman says will have to undergo considerable change.

The chairman, Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-Lawrence, has called for resumption of hearings tonight on the measure to earmark $625 million for education in the 1965-67 biennium.

Collins said he is contemplating changes that would provide for better equalization in the distribution of funds to "rich" and "poor" school districts. He said another $15 million—$20 million would have to be added to the measure "to make any satisfactory adjustments at all."

The legislators also face the likelihood of an eleventh-hour effort to get approval of a new legislative apportionment plan.

Other major matters still unresolved include a Senate-passed bill to allow sale of liquor on Sunday, the so-called fair housing bill, implementation of the voter-approved $290 million capital improvements bill, a measure to ban sales of milk and dairy products below cost, a conference committee to resolve differences in House and Senate versions of a bill to tighten the state's coal strip mining laws, and a Senate-approved measure to extend public school bus transportation to private and parochial school pupils.

Sen. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-Mahoning, called on Gov. James A. Rhodes over the weekend to use his office to boost passage of the school bus measure.

In a telegram, Gilmartin noted that the measure, now bogged down in a House subcommittee, had the support of the governor when it was considered in the Senate.

"We hope you were sincere," Gilmartin said.

The Senate was expected to reject today or Tuesday House amendments to the strip mining law revisions.

Sen. Edmund A. Sargus, D-Belmont, objected to amendments which struck from the measures provisions for the state to deny licenses for mining on nonreclaimable land and doubling the bond on land judged difficult to reclaim.

NEW ENTRIES

Grace Marie Smith vs. Elmer E. Smith; custody of two minor children awarded to plaintiff, defendant ordered to pay $70 every two weeks toward support.

State of Ohio for Shirley Doerr vs. Ronald E. Doerr; court finds defendant owes duty of support to plaintiff and child and that plaintiff needs a minimum of $35 per week, clerk ordered to forward necessary papers to proper state and county.

Fleda Mackall vs. George E. Mackall; parties reconciled, case dismissed at plaintiff's cost.

NEW CASES

Gladys Elizabeth Gilbert vs. John F. Gilbert, Salem MC 1; petition for alimony, custody of children and support.

Vote On Pact Today

CLEVELAND (AP)—Striking East Ohio Gas Co. employes throughout northeast Ohio vote today on a new two-year contract agreement reached by negotiators last week.

John Nagle, president of Local 555, Natural Gas Workers Union, which has been on strike since June 15, said the union's executive committee approved the proposal Friday but is making no recommendation to the membership. Details of the contract were not made public.

Girl By Name Of Grace Likes The Job Corps

CLEVELAND (AP)—Until a month ago Grace never had been out of West Virginia, never had seen a big city—or a freeway.

At 18 she hadn't been in school for four years. "Never did like it, and when I saw that F in Arithmetic (8th grade), I didn't want to go back."

Now Grace is studying arithmetic at Cleveland's $4 million Job Corps center for women, which she describes as "the wonderfulest place." And to her surprise, she finds she likes Arithmetic.

Grace stole a pleased glance at her corsage of pink carnations. It identified her as one of the girl guides who conducted about 500 visitors on an open house tour Sunday of the six-story brick building which is now her home.

Like many of 290 other girls 16 through 21 who are enrolled at the Job Corps center—one of five in the nation—Grace admits she's homesick.

"I'd like to see my family, and I'd like to climb the big hill back of our house on a nice day like today, and just look," she said. "You can see the town, and it's seven miles away."

Johnson's Teachers Corps Wins Support From Powell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell today endorsed President Johnson's proposed national teachers corps, but said it should have some provision for Negro teachers displaced by desegregation.

The President asked Congress Saturday to pass legislation creating such a corps to serve in slums and areas of rural poverty. Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., who introduced the bill in the House Wednesday, predicted passage.

"I don't think we will have any earthly problems," Perkins said. "We are going to pass it." He said he saw little prospect the measure might be crowded off the legislative agenda before Congress adjourns.

Powell, New York Democrat who heads the House Education and Labor Committee, said attention to the problem of a teacher shortage has been long overdue. He called the corps idea "a creative effort."

"However, at the same time, I am hopeful that the Congress in considering this legislation will devote specific attention to an equally serious developing problem: that of the displaced Negro teacher who is being discharged as Southern school districts desegregate," he said in a statement.

The President urged passage of the measure in letters to the presiding officers of the House and Senate.

Johnson also asked support for bills which would provide a program of fellowships to prepare students for teaching careers and help experienced teachers improve their qualifications, and for aid to colleges and universities to provide better education for teachers.

The proposals were basically the same the President outlined in a speech to the National Education Association July 2 in New York City.

The President's bid Saturday for support of the measure came three days before the convening Tuesday of a White House conference on education. About 650 leaders in education, business, labor and government are expected for the gathering to discuss problems of education.

The Social -:- Notebook

The 18th anniversary of the Needlecraft Society was celebrated with a dinner party Friday night at the Chicken Manor in Wellsville.

Covers were arranged for 12 by the committee, Mrs. Hilda Cole, Mrs. Gay Fox and Mrs. Wilda Talbott. Favors were inscribed figurine pin cushions and mother-of-pearl vases.

Plans were made to take the favors to Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, a charter member, who was unable to attend because of illness.

The group reconvened at the home of Mrs. Wilda Talbott of Cleveland Ave., where games and contests were featured.

Life-Like Lincoln New Disney Star

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Walt Disney celebrated the 10th anniversary of Disneyland by giving his $52 million pleasure park a new star: Abraham Lincoln.

The life-like Lincoln, an electronic marvel created by Disney's wizards, drew warm applause from anniversary audiences Sunday. It is a more advanced model than the one that has attracted 4 million visitors at the Illinois state pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

This Lincoln stands, gestures with 48 movements and delivers (with the voice of actor Royal Dano) a compilation of the 16th president's utterances on liberty. The face and head, modeled after a life mask, combine 17 different movements.

At opening ceremonies Sunday, Disney explained that the attraction was created on a crash program occasioned by a studio visit of Roberrt Moses, president of the New York fair.

Sunday's anniversary contrasted with Disneyland's opening exactly 10 years ago, when some termed the $17 million investment in the midst of orange groves "Walt's Folly."

Disney, who borrowed on his own life insurance to open the park, was to have the last laugh. Disneyland grew from 22 to 48 large scale attractions, and attendance climbed to 6 million yearly.

First Negro To Enter Mississippi State

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State University quietly enrolls its first Negro student in its 85-year history today.

Richard Holmes, 21, a foster son of a Starkville Negro doctor, registers as a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Desegregation came without a federal court order. Mississippi State, however, filed a pledge with the U.S. Office of Education that it would accept Negroes so it could remain eligible for federal funds.

Dr. Dean W. Colvard, Mississippi State's president, announced last month that Holmes, who had previously attended Wiley College for Negroes in Texas, would be accepted for the second six-week summer term. There was little reaction to the news.

Officers Cite 2 On Fighting

Two men were cited by police after one was injured in a fight about 3:18 a. m. Sunday on the Diamond at W. 6th St., officers reported.

Police identified the pair as Francis Fetty, 21, of 843 Sophia St. and E. Paul Macarelli of the YMCA, both accused of disorderly conduct by fighting.

Fetty, injured in the tussle, was admitted to City Hospital for observation and X-rays, police said. Lt. Kenneth Mooney and Patrolman Ronald Brookes investigated, with an assist from a former East Liverpool officer who now serves with a Florida police department.

Fetty's condition today was "fairly good." The hospital said he suffered a possible head injury, a possible concussion and a small laceration under the mouth.

Lt. Mooney reported he was operating a cruiser on W. 6th St. when he saw Fetty lying on the sidewalk on W. 6th just west of Market St. A man later identified as Dan McCoy was bending over Fetty, the officer reported.

Investigation disclosed that Fetty and another man had been involved in a fight outside a tavern, Lt. Mooney said. Milton Fowler, a former local officer now with the police department at Bartow, Fla., pointed out the second man allegedly involved in the fight as he walked on W. 6th near Market, Lt. Mooney said. Macarelli was returned to the scene as the police pieced together the story of the incident.

Macarelli appeared in Municipal Court this morning. When informed that Fetty still is in the hospital, Judge Samuel Chertoff ordered both cases continued until Thursday morning at 9.

Pilot Loses Life As Jet Crashes

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP) — "It looked as though someone had gone at the hillside with a bulldozer," said a man on the site of the plane crash that took the life of a pilot Sunday on his last scheduled flight as a member of the Ohio Air National Guard.

"It (the plane) hit the ground about 50 feet before you get to the crest of a small hill, and made a hole nine feet long and four feet deep . . . There were bits of maps and paper at the point of impact and the rest of the wreckage was sprayed out in a funnel-shaped pattern."

The description of the spot where Capt. Paul O. Leppo, 34, South Fort Mitchell, Ky., met his death came from Frank Unam of radio station WMWM in Wilmington.

The Ohio Air National Guard set up a board of inquiry to determine the cause of the crash that left wreckage of the F'84 jet fighter scattered over several acres of cornfield and pasture near Samantha in northern Highland County.

Unmanned Flight

Russians Silent On Spacecraft

MOSCOW (AP)—The new unmanned Soviet space traveler was reported functioning perfectly today in its flight to orbit around the sun. Its ultimate destination was still a mystery.

U.S. experts tended to rule out Mars as a target, saying that planet is no longer in a favorable position for another probe from earth.

By 4 a.m., EDT, the official Tass news agency reported, the space craft was 140,430 miles from earth. Tass said further radio communications with the satellite "will be carried out in accordance with the program."

The Soviet space authority announced the spacecraft, named "Automatic Station Zond 3," was launched Sunday on an orbit around the sun. The first announcement said the spacecraft and its scientific gear were "functioning normally" and "preliminary data shows that the trajectory of the automatic station is close to the expected one."

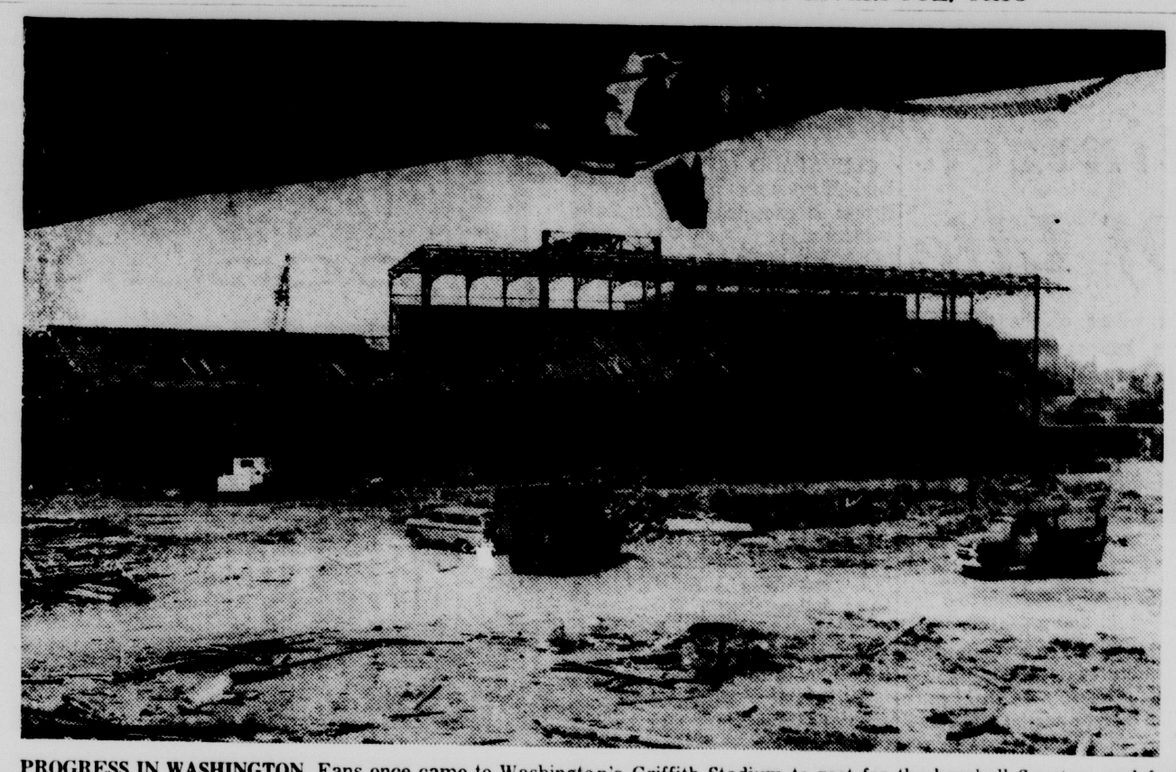

The purpose of the flight, the announcement said, "is to check the station's systems in conditions of prolonged space flight and holding of scientific studies in interplanetary space."

A solar orbit is required for probes of other planets. Such a route was taken by Mariner 4, which now is transmitting pictures of Mars back to earth.

The Russians have tried at least twice without success to probe the red planet. One attempt was made by Zond 2, launched Nov. 30, the day before America's successful Mariner 4. Zond 2 stopped transmitting after several months of flight.

An earlier Mars probe in 1962 also failed. The Soviets launched Zond 1 on April 2, 1964, but its destination was not disclosed and there has never been any disclosure of what it accomplished before it stopped transmitting.

The space authority did not link Zond 2 with Friday's orbiting about the earth of a satellite weighing more than 12 tons. That shot aroused speculation that the Russians were testing a super booster for a manned moon shot.

When he failed to appear last week for a hearing, a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. Court Bailiff Wilbert Taylor explained to the court that Farrow had appeared before court opened and asked to be excused. The judge was not aware of this.

Peter A. Russell, 957 Main St., Wellsville, was given a suspended fine of $10 and ordered to pay court costs on a charge of speeding.

Youth Seized For Bogalusa Area Gunplay

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — A 26-year-old Negro described by authorities as a member of the militant Deacons of Defense and Justice was held in jail today on charges he fired shots at a carload of white men.

Joe Gatlin, a Bogalusa resident, was booked for attempted murder. There were no injuries.

State troopers arrested Gatlin and three Negro companions, who were jailed on peace disturbance charges, after the incident at a truck stop eight miles south of Bogalusa.

The shooting came at the end of an otherwise quiet Sunday in this troubled town. Civil rights groups had announced it would be "a day of rest" and held no marches or demonstrations.

However, Negroes planned another mid-afternoon march today on City Hall and equal job opportunity pickets were to resume their parading outside Bogalusa stores.

A civil rights lawyer said he would go before U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert W. Christenberry in New Orleans today and seek Bogalusa authorities.

The attorney, Al Bronstein, said the arrest of pickets last Friday at a Bogalusa shopping center violated Judge Christenberry's injunction calling on officials to provide adequate protection for demonstrations and banning police from arresting civil rights workers exercising their constitutional rights.

Public Safety Commissioner Arnold Spiers said Sunday an off-duty fireman who squirted a water hose at a civil rights picket would be suspended without pay for 10 days.

Fireman Ray Risner, a barber in his off duty hours, hosed the picket in front of his shop Saturday.

The Deacons of Defense and Justice is a Negro vigilante group.

Police said Gatlin was a member of the group. Officers said they confiscated two pistols from Gatlin's car when he and his companions were arrested.

The Ku Klux Klan held a rally Saturday night in Mississippi, just across the Pearl River from Bogalusa.

L. C. McDaniel of Natchez, Miss., grand dragon of the United Klans of America, said in his speech:

"I have never advocated violence but where such trash as the Deacons for Defense are on the scene, I don't think protecting our rights could be termed violence."

Fire And Fine Mark Motorist's Busy Day

It was double trouble day today for William N. Bulger, 677 Lincoln Ave. — his car caught fire early this morning and he was fined for speeding later in Municipal Court.

City firemen extinguished the blaze in the motor of Bulger's car about 7 a. m. today at the intersection of E. 4th St. and Broadway. Heavy damage resulted to the wiring around the motor.

Bulger appeared in court at 9 a. m. on a charge of speeding 45 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone and was fined $10 and costs after pleading no contest. He was cited on W. 8th St. during a radar check, police said.

France Files Charge Over Flight By U.S.

PARIS (AP) — The Defense Ministry charged today that a U.S. photo reconnaissance plane flew near the French nuclear complex at Pierrelatte and was on a mission to take "unauthorized pictures."

The nuclear plant there is working on France's first hydrogen bomb.

A statement from the ministry said a protest had been presented at the U.S. Embassy in Paris.

The statement said cameras aboard the plane, an RF101, had taken 175 pictures of the complex Friday.

According to the Defense Ministry, the U.S. plane, which was based at Ramstein, Germany, made four runs over the atomic installation in southeastern France.

Th Defense Ministry accused the plane of three violations: flying in a restricted zone, taking photographs without authorization and taking pictures in a restricted zone.

Until today the French maintained official silence on the affair.

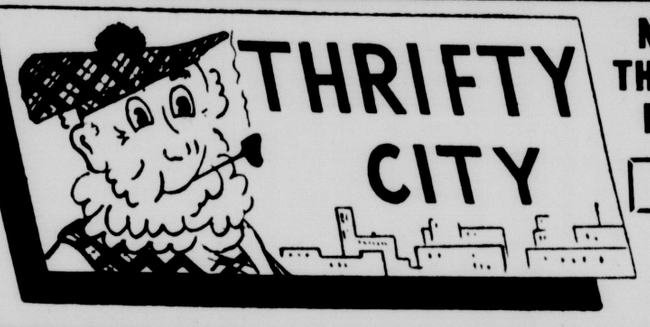

According to French news reports, French fighter planes were sent up to chase the U.S. plane out of the area. The Defense Ministry statement supported these reports but not in detail.

American officials said the plane was on a training mission. They said it filed a routine flight plan with French authorities but was "forced to deviate by reason of a thunderstorm from the flight plan previously filed."

Woman Tied, Gagged By 2 In Theft Try

LISBON — Clues to the identities of two men who bound and gagged an East Rochester woman and ransacked her home Sunday night were being sought today by Columbiana County sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Stella Frantum, operator of a small tourist home in East Rochester, told officers the two men came to her home last night on the pretense of purchasing the home.

A widow, Mrs. Frantum said the pair —"young and neatly dressed" — tied and gagged her, then went through the home in an apparent hunt for money.

One of the men was armed, the victim said.

They left in a late model auto, headed east toward Lisbon, she said.

Mrs. Frantum managed to free the gag from her mouth and screamed for help. A neighbor heard her and went to her aid.

Nothing was taken by the two intruders.

The Scented Orphan

STERLING, Kan. (AP) — Farmer Clyde Murphy faced a feeding problem when one of his cows died in giving birth to a calf. He settled it by dusting the orphan and another new calf with talcum powder. It covered the scent of both calves and the mother of the one calf accepted both without question.

Fire And Fine Mark Motorist's Busy Day

It was double trouble day today for William N. Bulger, 677 Lincoln Ave. — his car caught fire early this morning and he was fined for speeding later in Municipal Court.

City firemen extinguished the blaze in the motor of Bulger's car about 7 a. m. today at the intersection of E. 4th St. and Broadway. Heavy damage resulted to the wiring around the motor.

Bulger appeared in court at 9 a. m. on a charge of speeding 45 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone and was fined $10 and costs after pleading no contest. He was cited on W. 8th St. during a radar check, police said.

It's Bovine Heaven

LYONS, Kan. (AP) — Two weeks after Ralph Greathouse lost a heifer, children found the cow in what must be a bovine heaven. The cow was trapped in a stack of baled hay surrounded by puddles of rain water, and healthy except for lack of exercise.

France Files Charge Over Flight By U.S.

PARIS (AP) — The Defense Ministry charged today that a U.S. photo reconnaissance plane flew near the French nuclear complex at Pierrelatte and was on a mission to take "unauthorized pictures."

The nuclear plant there is working on France's first hydrogen bomb.

A statement from the ministry said a protest had been presented at the U.S. Embassy in Paris.

The statement said cameras aboard the plane, an RF101, had taken 175 pictures of the complex Friday.

According to the Defense Ministry, the U.S. plane, which was based at Ramstein, Germany, made four runs over the atomic installation in southeastern France.

Th Defense Ministry accused the plane of three violations: flying in a restricted zone, taking photographs without authorization and taking pictures in a restricted zone.

Until today the French maintained official silence on the affair.

According to French news reports, French fighter planes were sent up to chase the U.S. plane out of the area. The Defense Ministry statement supported these reports but not in detail.

American officials said the plane was on a training mission. They said it filed a routine flight plan with French authorities but was "forced to deviate by reason of a thunderstorm from the flight plan previously filed."

Woman Tied, Gagged By 2 In Theft Try

LISBON — Clues to the identities of two men who bound and gagged an East Rochester woman and ransacked her home Sunday night were being sought today by Columbiana County sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Stella Frantum, operator of a small tourist home in East Rochester, told officers the two men came to her home last night on the pretense of purchasing the home.

A widow, Mrs. Frantum said the pair —"young and neatly dressed" — tied and gagged her, then went through the home in an apparent hunt for money.

One of the men was armed, the victim said.

They left in a late model auto, headed east toward Lisbon, she said.

Mrs. Frantum managed to free the gag from her mouth and screamed for help. A neighbor heard her and went to her aid.

Nothing was taken by the two intruders.

The Scented Orphan

STERLING, Kan. (AP) — Farmer Clyde Murphy faced a feeding problem when one of his cows died in giving birth to a calf. He settled it by dusting the orphan and another new calf with talcum powder. It covered the scent of both calves and the mother of the one calf accepted both without question.

Revolution Seen

KUCHING, Malaysia (AP) — About 26,000 Chinese who side with Peking are believed prepared for armed revolution in the Malaysian Borneo state of Sarawak.

British security officials fear the situation could degenerate into another Viet Nam because of the rugged jungle and presence of combat-rady Indonesians waiting on the border.

Mars Shots Scrutinized For Some Hint Of Life

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory settled down today to an exhaustive study of Maariner 4's photographs of Mars, coming in at a rate of one every 10 hours, in a search for some hint of life.

Laboratory Director William H. Pickering believes some sort of life exists on Mars and the agency for which he works, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has plans for spending hundreds of millions of dollars to find it.

No evidence of life showed up in the first three photographs' released last week. They outlined a desert-like area similar to the broad plans on earth's lifeless moon.

Before any more are released, all of the possible 21 photographs taken as Mariner 4 flew past Mars Wednesday are going to be carefully analyzed.

Transmitted across 134 million miles of space, they contain many "glitches," an engineering term for electronic errors and static. They also show several markings scientists doubt actually exist on Mars. A likelier explanation, they say, would be some fault in the camera and radio system.

For instance, all three show a dark spot in the same area of the frame, almost as if the lens were smudged. Frame No. 1 has cloud- like wisps above the surface, but these are much higher than the thin Martian atmosphere extends.

Laboratory scientists have an almost magical way of eliminating markings they don't believe are real. They can wipe out traces of noise, make light spots dark and dark spots light to what the pictures ought to show.

Mariner 4's camera is linked to a device which converts the light values of the picture it takes into numbers. Zero is white, 63 is black. The numbers in between represent various shades of gray.

The spacecraft radio transmits these numbers to earth where they are recorded on tape. The tape is fed into a device which converts the numbers back into dots of various shades of gray, 200 dots to a line and 200 lines to a picture.

If the dots don't make sense in some areas — if they show a marking where none ought to be — the picture can be made logical by feeding the tape into a computer.

Experts tell the computer to print out another tape with the numbers, or dots, made lighter or darker to conform with the dots around it.

Mariner 4 will have time to send over again at least twice before it streaks beyond radio range into a wide orbit around the sun.

Jimmy Brown Due On Stand

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns fullback Jim Brown is expected to take the witness stand this week to deny allegations made by an 18-year-old girl who accused him of slapping her in an East Side motel room and forcing her to drink liquor.

Attorney Norman S. Minor, who is defending the National Football League star in the assault and battery case, said Brown wanted to testify to deny "all the ridiculous statements of Miss Brenda Ayres."

In three days of testimony before the Municipal Court jury last week Miss Ayres told of being intimate with Brown on various occasions from May 12, when she was introduced to Brown, until June 19.

The slender, 108-pound teenager testified that Brown threatened her and forced her to accompany him to the motel room the night of June 19. In that room, she said, Brown slapped her on the face hip and stomach.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: As I type this letter tears are streaming down my cheeks. No, I have not been jilted. It's worse than that. For the fourth time today, the woman whose desk is next to mine has sprayed herself with the world's most sickening perfume.

She proudly boasts that she makes the perfume herself by combining three different scents and adding a bit of vanilla extract. I'm not the only one who suffers. The woman who sits on the other side of me gets nauseated after every spraying. Right now she's green as grass.

The thing that burns me up is that the sprayer went to the supervisor three months ago and asked that cigar smoking be prohibited because it made her sick.

At this moment I'm sneezing and my head is beginning to ache. I'm not a troublemaker, Ann, but I think something should be done. What do you suggest? — VICTIM.

Dear Vic: You could dramatize your problem by falling on the floor and calling for an oxygen pump the next time the perfume lady sprays —but I'd like to suggest a more practical and realistic approach. Tell the woman you are allergic to her perfume and if she'd settle for a dab behind her ears and not spray the office you'd appreciate it.

Non-Prommer

Dear Ann: I'm a high school student who will be a senior next fall. Please tell me what I can do to make my last year livable. If I don't get asked for a date before I graduate I'll just die.

I'm not too tall or too fat or ugly. Kids like me—both girls and boys—but my trouble is I'm the pal type, the big sister.

During the last month of school three guys asked me who to take to the junior prom. When the fourth one asked I couldn't stand it any longer so I answered in a half-joking way, "What's the matter with ME?" The fellow laughed and said, "You've got to be kidding."

Maybe I got off to a bad start by playing baseball and football with the guys in the neighborhood when I was in grade school. I quit last year when my mother said it was disgraceful. I need your help and I need it now. Please don't fail me. — PLATONIC.

Dear Platonic: I'm glad you finally gave up the sandlot routine. What fellow wants to get romantic with a third baseman?

Start the new school year by inviting one fellow at a time to your house to study — or just to talk. A platonic friendship is often the best springboard for a truly meaningful relationship. Remember that love is friendship that catches fire.

Far Out And Brassy

Dear Ann: My cousin considers herself a nonconformist. I've always thought she was plenty far out and just plain brassy. Recently she did something that has the family divided into two camps.

Mary (not her real name) is graduating from nursing school soon. She also is planning to marry in a few months. My invitation to her graduation arrived in the mail yesterday. Attached was a note saying, "Stuck for a gift idea? Here's help. Go to the linen department of the such-and-such department store and ask for Miss Williams. She has the gift all ready. It is a set of monogrammed towels. The price is $7.98. Thank you in advance."

What is your opinion of this? — ON THE SPOT.

Dear On: To use your words, I would describe it as "plenty far out and just plain brassy." Ignore the instructions and send whatever you wish.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ever add grated orange juice to the egg and milk used for dipping bread slices for French toast. A little sugar is another good addition to the dipping mixture; the sugar helps the French toast brown.

Seed-Spitting Record Florida Boy's Goal

MIAMI (AP) — Come watermelon time, you are challenged to a seed spitting contest by a Miami student who aspires to the world championship.

Seventeen-year-old Sal Bello says he has spat melon seeds 41 feet, 4 inches, and would welcome competition with other expectoration stars. He did only 31½ feet in winning a Miami-Dade Junior College student contest, and blamed his "seedy" performance on cross-winds and inferior melon missiles — not slick enough.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: As I type this letter tears are streaming down my cheeks. No, I have not been jilted. It's worse than that. For the fourth time today, the woman whose desk is next to mine has sprayed herself with the world's most sickening perfume.

She proudly boasts that she makes the perfume herself by combining three different scents and adding a bit of vanilla extract. I'm not the only one who suffers. The woman who sits on the other side of me gets nauseated after every spraying. Right now she's green as grass.

The thing that burns me up is that the sprayer went to the supervisor three months ago and asked that cigar smoking be prohibited because it made her sick.

At this moment I'm sneezing and my head is beginning to ache. I'm not a troublemaker, Ann, but I think something should be done. What do you suggest? — VICTIM.

Dear Vic: You could dramatize your problem by falling on the floor and calling for an oxygen pump the next time the perfume lady sprays —but I'd like to suggest a more practical and realistic approach. Tell the woman you are allergic to her perfume and if she'd settle for a dab behind her ears and not spray the office you'd appreciate it.

Non-Prommer

Dear Ann: I'm a high school student who will be a senior next fall. Please tell me what I can do to make my last year livable. If I don't get asked for a date before I graduate I'll just die.

I'm not too tall or too fat or ugly. Kids like me—both girls and boys—but my trouble is I'm the pal type, the big sister.

During the last month of school three guys asked me who to take to the junior prom. When the fourth one asked I couldn't stand it any longer so I answered in a half-joking way, "What's the matter with ME?" The fellow laughed and said, "You've got to be kidding."

Maybe I got off to a bad start by playing baseball and football with the guys in the neighborhood when I was in grade school. I quit last year when my mother said it was disgraceful. I need your help and I need it now. Please don't fail me. — PLATONIC.

Dear Platonic: I'm glad you finally gave up the sandlot routine. What fellow wants to get romantic with a third baseman?

Start the new school year by inviting one fellow at a time to your house to study — or just to talk. A platonic friendship is often the best springboard for a truly meaningful relationship. Remember that love is friendship that catches fire.

Far Out And Brassy

Dear Ann: My cousin considers herself a nonconformist. I've always thought she was plenty far out and just plain brassy. Recently she did something that has the family divided into two camps.

Mary (not her real name) is graduating from nursing school soon. She also is planning to marry in a few months. My invitation to her graduation arrived in the mail yesterday. Attached was a note saying, "Stuck for a gift idea? Here's help. Go to the linen department of the such-and-such department store and ask for Miss Williams. She has the gift all ready. It is a set of monogrammed towels. The price is $7.98. Thank you in advance."

What is your opinion of this? — ON THE SPOT.

Dear On: To use your words, I would describe it as "plenty far out and just plain brassy." Ignore the instructions and send whatever you wish.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ever add grated orange juice to the egg and milk used for dipping bread slices for French toast. A little sugar is another good addition to the dipping mixture; the sugar helps the French toast brown.

Seed-Spitting Record Florida Boy's Goal

MIAMI (AP) — Come watermelon time, you are challenged to a seed spitting contest by a Miami student who aspires to the world championship.

Seventeen-year-old Sal Bello says he has spat melon seeds 41 feet, 4 inches, and would welcome competition with other expectoration stars. He did only 31½ feet in winning a Miami-Dade Junior College student contest, and blamed his "seedy" performance on cross-winds and inferior melon missiles — not slick enough.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

There's Money In Being A Car

The announcement that NBC would have a TV series next season about a talking car was met with incredulous cries like "Come off it!" and "You've got to be kidding!" But it's true and, as Ann Sothern says, "If a horse can talk, why can't a car?"

Ann takes Hal Humphrey this matter-of-fact attitude only because she happens to be the car's voice. Actors with small roles used to make cracks about phoning their parts in, but Ann could really do it now, and she doesn't feel the least degraded about it.

-:-

"I AM INTERESTED in money," Ann tells anyone who asks why she is doing this. "Anyway, I'm an actress and I want to act. I don't want to sit around waiting for the great things that never come along."

About the only things Ann hasn't done in her full career as a performer are state fairs and TV commercials.

"Oh, and I've never been shot out of a cannon," she adds, giving you the impression she would if the price were right.

In "My Mother, the Car," which is the title of NBC's epic comedy (it hopes), Jerry Van Dyke (brother of Dick, who stars in his own TV series) plays a small-town lawyer who visits a used car lot one day and becomes intrigued by an antique (1928) Porter. As he sits down behind the wheel, a voice says, "Hello, son."

-:-

THE PORTER is Dave Crabtree's (that's Jerry) mother reincarnated. She explains to him that "it was the only way I could find to bring me back." Naturally he buys the car and, like Alan Young's horse, Mr. Ed, the car talks only to its owner.

"I play her a pretty hip character," says Ann, "Although so far I must admit my dialogue hasn't been earth-shattering."

At first Ann sat in the projection room and dubbed her lines, but then the director decided it was unnecessary for her to see the action. So now she does what is called a "wild track," which means recording her lines and inserting them into the sound track on the film later.

WITH A COMEDIENNE as experienced as Ann, it requires very little exposition from the director for her to pitch the proper mood into the lines belonging to the car.

She will get full billing as "The Voice" in "My Mother, the Car" and figures that the viewers will become so intrigued they will demand an actual appearance by Ann occasionally.

"We could do it by way of a dream sequence in which Dave recalls times when his mother was alive," she says.

Besides playing a 1929 Porter (there was a car, but it was made before 1928), Ann is playing her countess role in three of Lucy Ball's shows next season and next week is filming a "Legend of Jesse James" episode, which is another new series for next season.

-:-

AFTER CONFINEMENT of two series (four seasons of "Private Secretary" and two of "The Ann Sothern Show"), many actresses would be glad of the opportunity to free-lance and be away from that grind. Not Ann

"I want to do another series. It's the only way you can make money, and I need a lot of money to live. They tell you about all these corporate deals, but it doesn't work. The government still gets most of it," Ann insists.

She has an idea for a new series and hopes to have it ready for the 1966-67 TV season. Later this summer Ann will do summer theater dates with "The Solid Gold Cadillac" in Warren and Columbus, Ohio. There isn't much money in that, but she likes the discipline of a continuous theater performance.

The other half of the Sothern household, daughter Tish, has been signed for a continuing role in ABC's new "Long Hot Summer" serie.

"She plays a kind of bad girl and was worried about that part of it, but I told her those are the roles which pay off," says her mother.

Jump Record Claimed By Ohio Parachutist

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—A sport parachutist from Xenia is claiming a new national record of 60 jumps within a 12-hour period.

Jim West made his first jump at 6:08 a.m. Sunday and surpassed the 52 recorded four weeks ago by Andrew Starkey of Circleville about eight hours later. Since he still had time remaining, he jumped several more times.

Two Key Bills Facing House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $1.9-billion antipoverty measure and a $1-billion military pay raise bill share the voting spotlight in Congress this week.

Both are on the House docket.

The military bill, twice as big as President Johnson requested, was expected to sail through the House with little opposition today. It has not been considered by the Senate, which may yield to administration pressure to whittle it down.

For the antipoverty bill, a broadening and continuation of a problem started last year to help the nation's poor, the outlook is not so bright. Republicans have assailed the measure as a political project designed to woo the votes of the needy.

The bill is scheduled to start its run through the House Tuesday, with administration leaders predicting passage Wednesday or Thursday. It has not been considered by the Senate.

The Senate's floor program is comparatively light. It includes action bills to provide home rule for the District of Columbia and to afford educational benefits for military veterans of the cold war.

Committee activity will be intense throughout the week, with most of the action centering in Senate-House groups trying to work out compromises on several big measures passed by both branches.

On another front, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has called for a showdown within the Senate Judiciary Committee this week. He wants it to act on his proposed constitutional amendment which would allow voters in each state to decide whether they want one house of their legislature apportioned on something other than a population basis. The Supreme Court decreed that both houses of a legislature must be apportioned on population.

Topping the measures in the compromise stage are bills dealing with health care for the elderly, voting rights for minorities, foreign-aid authorization, housing and a group of annual appropriation bills. All will have to make another trip through the Senate and the House before they can become law.

Pair Accused As Baby Dies

A young Navy man and his wife, both natives of Lawrence County, Pa., are in jail at Meridian, Miss., charged with the murder of their 27 - month-old son.

Hill, 27, and his wife, Ida, 24, were charged Saturday following an autopsy on the body of the child, Richard Hill, one of their four sons. The boy died Friday. There's Money In Being A Car

The announcement that NBC would have a TV series next season about a talking car was met with incredulous cries like "Come off it!" and "You've got to be kidding!" But it's true and, as Ann Sothern says, "If a horse can talk, why can't a car?"

Hal Humphrey

Ann takes this matter-of-fact attitude only because she happens to be the car's voice. Actors with small roles used to make cracks about phoning their parts in, but Ann could really do it now, and she doesn't feel the least degraded about it.

-:-

"I AM INTERESTED in money," Ann tells anyone who asks why she is doing this. "Anyway, I'm an actress and I want to act. I don't want to sit around waiting for the great things that never come along."

About the only things Ann hasn't done in her full career as a performer are state fairs and TV commercials.

"Oh, and I've never been shot out of a cannon," she adds, giving you the impression she would if the price were right.

In "My Mother, the Car," which is the title of NBC's epic comedy (it hopes), Jerry Van Dyke (brother of Dick, who stars in his own TV series) plays a small-town lawyer who visits a used car lot one day and becomes intrigued by an antique (1928) Porter. As he sits down behind the wheel, a voice says, "Hello, son."

-:-

THE PORTER is Dave Crabtree's (that's Jerry) mother reincarnated. She explains to him that "it was the only way I could find to bring me back." Naturally he buys the car and, like Alan Young's horse, Mr. Ed, the car talks only to its owner.

"I play her a pretty hip character," says Ann, "Although so far I must admit my dialogue hasn't been earth-shattering."

At first Ann sat in the projection room and dubbed her lines, but then the director decided it was unnecessary for her to see the action. So now she does what is called a "wild track," which means recording her lines and inserting them into the sound track on the film later.

WITH A COMEDIENNE as experienced as Ann, it requires very little exposition from the director for her to pitch the proper mood into the lines belonging to the car.

She will get full billing as "The Voice" in "My Mother, the Car" and figures that the viewers will become so intrigued they will demand an actual appearance by Ann occasionally.

"We could do it by way of a dream sequence in which Dave recalls times when his mother was alive," she says.

Besides playing a 1929 Porter (there was a car, but it was made before 1928), Ann is playing her countess role in three of Lucy Ball's shows next season and next week is filming a "Legend of Jesse James" episode, which is another new series for next season.

-:-

AFTER CONFINEMENT of two series (four seasons of "Private Secretary" and two of "The Ann Sothern Show"), many actresses would be glad of the opportunity to free-lance and be away from that grind. Not Ann

"I want to do another series. It's the only way you can make money, and I need a lot of money to live. They tell you about all these corporate deals, but it doesn't work. The government still gets most of it," Ann insists.

She has an idea for a new series and hopes to have it ready for the 1966-67 TV season. Later this summer Ann will do summer theater dates with "The Solid Gold Cadillac" in Warren and Columbus, Ohio. There isn't much money in that, but she likes the discipline of a continuous theater performance.

The other half of the Sothern household, daughter Tish, has been signed for a continuing role in ABC's new "Long Hot Summer" serie.

"She plays a kind of bad girl and was worried about that part of it, but I told her those are the roles which pay off," says her mother.

Jump Record Claimed By Ohio Parachutist

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—A sport parachutist from Xenia is claiming a new national record of 60 jumps within a 12-hour period.

Jim West made his first jump at 6:08 a.m. Sunday and surpassed the 52 recorded four weeks ago by Andrew Starkey of Circleville about eight hours later. Since he still had time remaining, he jumped several more times.

Two Key Bills Facing House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $1.9-billion antipoverty measure and a $1-billion military pay raise bill share the voting spotlight in Congress this week.

Both are on the House docket.

The military bill, twice as big as President Johnson requested, was expected to sail through the House with little opposition today. It has not been considered by the Senate, which may yield to administration pressure to whittle it down.

For the antipoverty bill, a broadening and continuation of a problem started last year to help the nation's poor, the outlook is not so bright. Republicans have assailed the measure as a political project designed to woo the votes of the needy.

The bill is scheduled to start its run through the House Tuesday, with administration leaders predicting passage Wednesday or Thursday. It has not been considered by the Senate.

The Senate's floor program is comparatively light. It includes action bills to provide home rule for the District of Columbia and to afford educational benefits for military veterans of the cold war.

Committee activity will be intense throughout the week, with most of the action centering in Senate-House groups trying to work out compromises on several big measures passed by both branches.

On another front, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has called for a showdown within the Senate Judiciary Committee this week. He wants it to act on his proposed constitutional amendment which would allow voters in each state to decide whether they want one house of their legislature apportioned on something other than a population basis. The Supreme Court decreed that both houses of a legislature must be apportioned on population.

Topping the measures in the compromise stage are bills dealing with health care for the elderly, voting rights for minorities, foreign-aid authorization, housing and a group of annual appropriation bills. All will have to make another trip through the Senate and the House before they can become law.

Pair Accused As Baby Dies

A young Navy man and his wife, both natives of Lawrence County, Pa., are in jail at Meridian, Miss., charged with the murder of their 27 - month-old son.

Justice of the Peace R. E. Crawford of Meridian said Sunday the couple, Aviation Mechanic 2C and Mrs. Garvin R. Hill, are without funds to hire counsel and Crawford remanded them to the Lauderdale County Jail at Meridian pending appointment of an attorney.

Hill, 27, and his wife, Ida, 24, were charged Saturday following an autopsy on the body of the child, Richard Hill, one of their four sons. The boy died Friday. Hill is from Ellwood City and Mrs. Hill from Enon Valley. The other three boys, ranging in age from 7 months to 5 years, have been placed in a foster home.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Alton Allen said Richard had been battered with an 18-inch paddle, and Allen quoted the father as saying he had disciplined the child.

Drunken Marines' Raid Fizzles

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two drunken U.S. Marine infantrymen tried to raid Hanoi, but they couldn't get the jet bombers started, a military spokesman said today.

"We are here to kill Viet Cong, and we are going to Hanoi to bomb it," said one of the Marines, according to an official report of the incident.

Military sources gave this account:

The Leathernecks sneaked onto the flight line at the Da Nang Air Base Friday night and climbed into a B57 light bomber. One of the men, sitting in the navigator's seat, became angry when his companion couldn't start the plane and climbed out to get into his own aircraft.

Air police spotted the two as they sat trying to start the engines. The two were turned over to Marine authorities. The pair escaped Sunday morning but were picked up during the afternoon.

Military sources said the Marines had caused some damage to the bombers while fumbling with the switches and controls. However, both planes were repaired and flown on strike missions against the Viet Cong Saturday.

Even if the two men had been able to start the planes, they had virtually no chance of being able to take off and carry out the raid, the sources added.

Sneak Attack!

Drunken Marines' Raid Fizzles

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two drunken U.S. Marine infantrymen tried to raid Hanoi, but they couldn't get the jet bombers started, a military spokesman said today.

"We are here to kill Viet Cong, and we are going to Hanoi to bomb it," said one of the Marines, according to an official report of the incident.

Military sources gave this account:

The Leathernecks sneaked onto the flight line at the Da Nang Air Base Friday night and climbed into a B57 light bomber. One of the men, sitting in the navigator's seat, became angry when his companion couldn't start the plane and climbed out to get into his own aircraft.

Air police spotted the two as they sat trying to start the engines. The two were turned over to Marine authorities. The pair escaped Sunday morning but were picked up during the afternoon.

Military sources said the Marines had caused some damage to the bombers while fumbling with the switches and controls. However, both planes were repaired and flown on strike missions against the Viet Cong Saturday.

Even if the two men had been able to start the planes, they had virtually no chance of being able to take off and carry out the raid, the sources added.

Ohio's Traffic Kills 24 More

Traffic	24
Drowning	2

Total	30

By The Associated Press

At least 24 persons died in 18 accidents on Ohio's streets and highways over the weekend — and 12 of the accidents involved were one-car mishaps.

The unusually excessive number of one-car mishaps came as the weekend toll soared above 20 for the third straight weekend, including the long Fourth of July holiday period when 36 deaths were recorded. Twenty fatalities were recorded last weekend.

At least one of the weekend's one-car fatal accidents was attributed to excessive speed, another to a rain-soaked highway. In at least two instances drivers lost control of vehicles on curves.

In addition to the traffic fatalities, at least two persons—aged 13 and 16—drowned, and four persons died in miscellaneous accidents.

The fatalities:

Alters Her Plans

Canton Girl Wins 'Miss Ohio' Title

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) Valerie Jan Lavin of Canton planned to decide this fall whether she was going to become a Spanish teacher or learn to be an interpreter. But a little crown made a big change in those plans.

For now, Valerie will be representing Ohio in the Miss America Contest instead of preparing for another quarter at Ohio State University.

Should she win at Atlantic City—as Jackie Mayer of Sandusky did to become Miss America of 1963—school will be out for at least a year.

The black haired, 19-year-old of Spanish descent and a Spanish major in college, took the Miss Ohio title even though she didn't win any category in the preliminary rounds. She apparently impressed the judges with a rounded performance, which included displaying grace in an evening gown, beauty in a swim suit, song and dance talent and poise and insight in analyzing a painting.

Second place also went to an Ohio State student, 20-year-old Sharon Phillian of Delaware, a singer competing as Miss Central Ohio.

Valerie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Val Lavin, said she "felt numb" when the judges decision was announced. But her thoughts turned quickly to Atlantic City and she said she probably would leave for the Miss America Contest on Sept. 3, her birthday.

She probably also will include quite a bit of pink in her wardrobe. She wore a pink swim suit and dresses during most of the Miss Ohio judging. Was this her lucky color?

"It seems to be," she said. "But I also saved a wishbone from last year's awards luncheon."

That was a reference to the 1964 contest in which she competed as Miss OSU but failed to make the top 10. She was entered this year as Miss Canton. She credited a change of her talent presentation to singing instead of the monologue she gave last year for helping her to victory.

She won a $1,000 college scholarship among other prizes.

Nancy Borden of Roachdale, Inc., Miss Miami University, won a $250 scholarship for the best talent among contestants not in the top five. Kristi Lee Milligan of Ripley, Miss Brown County, was voted Miss Congeniality by her fellow contestants.

Others in the top five were Valvet Linda Rogers of Dayton, Miss Miami Valley; Sharon Ann Martin of Fremont, Miss Bowling Green State University, and Patricia Ann Mazeppa of Garfield Heights, Miss Cleveland.

Judith Ann Duncan of New Boston, runnerup last year and Miss Portsmouth, was among the 10 semifinalists but did not make the top five.

Girl Scouts Plan Overnight Camp

Cadet Girl Scouts in District 3 of the Upper Ohio Valley Girl Scout Council will hold an overnight stay Sept. 10-11 at the Weirton Police Lodge.

Patrol-size units will be formed. The main topics will be outdoor cooking and tent-pitching. Each troop will furnish its own food, eating together at a campfire snack, breakfast and lunch. The girls will check in Sept. 10 at 7 p. m. and Sept. 11 at 4 p. m.

Plans for the event were discussed at a district meeting of cadets and leaders Thursday at Hindman Roadside Park in Weirton. Attending from Wellsville were Linda Reese and Denise Clark, cadets, and Mrs. Ethel Clark and Miss Jane Morris, neighborhood chairmen.

Marian Wells will represent the Wellsville unit in a style show in August at the Stone & Thomas store in Wheeling.

Korean Police Slain Battling Red Agents

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Two policemen were killed Sunday night in an exchange of shots 5 miles north of Seoul with four armed Communist agents from North Korea, the national police said today.

Two of the Red agents were captured, police said, and a search was on for the other two.

LONDON (AP) — Two hundred police have been assigned to control the crowds at the world premiere next week of the Beatles' new film, "Help."

Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are to attend the charity performance July 29. So will the Beatles.

Mele Can't Recall Hitting Ump

★ ★ ★ Wasn't Valentine's Day ★ ★ ★

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam Mele has developed a sudden case of amnesia. But he's sure of one thing—Sunday wasn't Valentine's Day.

The usually mild-mannered Minnesota manager still can't remember whether he threw a punch at Umpire Bill Valentine during a dispute over a call at first base in the Twins' 5-3 loss to Los Angeles in the opening game of a doubleheader.

And Mele refused to trigger his memory in the nightcap, judiciously avoiding any contact with Valentine by sending coach Billy Martin up to the plate with the line-up cards before the Twins went on to 5-4 victory and ended a four-game losing skid.

Neither Valentine nor American League President Joe Cronin, who witnessed the game, would comment on the flare-up but Mele pointed an accusing finger at Valentine for poking a finger in his face.

Mele decided it wasn't Valentine's day in the sixth inning when the umpire called Jim Fregosi safe in a close play at first base. Mele immediately charged onto the field, a chest-bumping incident ensued and it appeared that the Twins' manager threw a left at the umpire.

Mele was ejected. But he wasn't dejected.

Baltimore downed Detroit 4-1, Cleveland lost to Boston 4-1 and the White Sox split, defeating Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings before losing 7-5. The day's top performance, meanwhile, was turned in by Washington's Mike McCormick, who two-hit the New York Yankees 3-0 for his first shutout in more than four years.

In the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the Chicago Cubs 4-1 in 11 innings, Cincinnati belted Pittsburgh 8-4 after losing the opener 6-5, St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 3-1, Houston topped San Francisco 5-2 and Milwaukee swept the New York Mets 5-1 and 5-4.

Joe Adcock provided the winning runs for the Angels in the opener, doubling home a pair in the seventh inning after Jose Cardenal and Tom Satriano worked a double steal.

Satriano homered in the nightcap as the Angels went into the bottom of the eighth with a 4-3 lead over the Twins. But Don Mincher tied it with a homer and then Fregosi became the center of attraction again.

With runners on first and third, Joe Nossek struck out and Sandy Valdespino broke for second. Catcher Bob Rodgers threw to second and Bob Allison broke from third, heading home. Allison was caught in a run-down but Fregosi let the ball get away and Allison scored the winning run.

Wally Bunker, now 6-4, checked the Tigers on four hits while the Orioles broke a 1-1 tie with two runs in the eighth on singles by Dick Brown, Luis Aparicio and Jackie Brandt plus a sacrifice fly by Bob Johnson. Aparicio earlier hit a homer off Detroit starter Hank Aguirre, 10-5.

Dick Radatz put down Indian uprisings in the sixth and seventh innings as the Red Sox snapped a four-game losing streak. Felix Mantilla, Carl Yastrzemski and Tony Conigliaro each singled in a run for Boston while Max Alvis hit his 16th homer for Cleveland.

The White Sox won the opener in the 10th as Al Ewis, running for Pete Ward, stole second, continued to third when Rene Lachemann threw the ball into center field and scored on Danny Cater's single.

The A's tagged Gary Peters, 5-8, with the second game loss as home runs by Nelson Mathews, Dick Green and Ken Harrelson proved decisive.

McCormick, who hadn't pitched a shutout since July 10, 1961, allowed the Yankees only two singles. Don Blasingame's two-run single and a tape-measure homer by Frank Howard into the upper left fied stands accounted for the Senators' runs.

Louthans Win Title In Slow Pitch League

Lanny DeBee drove in the winning run in the seventh inning to give Louthans a 2-1 victory over the Esquire Barbers in the playoff game for the first half championship in the Slow Pitch League.

Loren Griffen homered for Louthans and John Creaturo had two hits. Jack Canton was the winning pitcher. Bob Swogger and Butch McElhaney had two hits for Esquire and Rich Manning was the losing pitcher.

Louthans opened the second half with a 7-4 win over Dawson Hammond. Jim Joy had three hits, Loren Griffen two doubles and Snow homered for the winners. Dominici and Porto had three hits for Dawson - Hammond.

Gene Battle had four hits and Joe Comfort and Len Lewis three each as World Book trounced Esquire Barbers, 16-9. Art Bosworth homered for Esquire.

Dan Fisher drove in the winning run with a clutch single in the sixth inning to give Osborn's Barbers a 7-6 victory over Scafide's. Ed Oliver's grand slam home run in the fourth inning was the big blow for the Barbers. Fisher was the winning pitcher in relief with Jim Clunk the loser.

Jim Busby, a coach with the Houston Astros, was traded five times during his major league playing career.

Slow Pitch League Player 'Fairly Good'

Littler Outlasts Jack To Win Canadian Title

TORONTO (AP) — Gene Littler is $20,000 richer today because he made a change in his putting style three weeks ago.

Littler withstood a challenge by Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, over the final nine holes of the 72-hole Canadian Open Golf Championship Saturday to win the title and the $20,000 purse.

Littler, who plays out of Las Vegas, Nev., feels he never could have done it if he hadn't made a slight alteration in his putting at the St. Paul Open three weeks ago.

Littler finished one stroke ahead of Nicklaus by making a four-foot pressure putt on the 18th hole after the two were tied for second place going into the last day.

Littler was four under par with a 66 on the last 18 holes after earlier rounds of 70, 68 and 69. Nicklaus, playing in a three-some ahead of Littler, knew his opponent was a stroke ahead of him and went for a 12-foot birdie putt on the 18th, hoping to tie and force a sudden-death playoff.

But the putt slid past the side of the cup and left Nicklaus in second place with $12,000.

Australian Bruce Devlin, the leader after three rounds, lost his two-stroke margin on the final day by ballooning to a 74 and finished in an eighth-place tie. Devlin had been suffering from a sore left shoulder, a mild throat infection and varicose veins throughout the $100,000 tournament.

Littler and Nicklaus, along with Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., and Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., entered the final day's play with three-round scores of 207.

Rudolph finished with a steady 71 for 278 and a share of third place with first-round leader Joe Campbell of Perdido Bay, Fla., tour rookie Homero Blancas of Houston, Tex., Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash., and Randy Glover of Florence, S.C. All collected $4,760.

But Palmer had a disastrous round, skyrocketing to a 76 for 283 and ended up in 23rd place, and $1,000.

Fight Results

BUENOS AIRES—Ismael Laguna, 133¾, Panama, and Nicolino Locche, 134, Argentina, drew, 10, nontitle.

FALCONARA, Italy — Aldo Pravisani, 130½, Italy, stopped Armando Scorda, 131, Italy, 12. Pravisani won vacant Italian lightweight title.

SANTA CRUZ de TENERIFE, Canary Islands—Juan Sombrita Albornoz, 138½, Spain, outpointed Sandro Lopopolo, 138½, Italy, 15. Albornoz won vacant European junior welterweight title.

BRINDISI, Italy—Franco Zurlo, 117½, Italy, outpointed Benny Lee, 118, Ghana, 6.

Charles R. Coe won the U.S. Amateur golf title in 1949 and again in 1958. He was runnerup in 1959.

Bernie Allen Headed For Denver Club

Bernie Allen, infielder for the Minnesota Twins, will return to Denver of the Pacific Coast League later this week. Allen who has been hampered by a knee injury, was sent to Denver last month and returned to the Twins 10 days later.

With Minnesota he was used at third base and second base and has seen duty as a pinch hitter coming up with several key hits for the first place Twins.

He is expected to remain at the Twins farm club until the season ends there sometime in September.

Heart Attack Claims Driver At The Wheel

URBAN, Ohio (AP)—Veteran race driver Bob Daniels, 40, who died of a heart attack at the wheel of his car after winning the feature race at Shady Bowl Speedway Saturday night, had been warned by his doctor not to race, his wife said.

Mrs. Lorenza Denials, who was at the speedway with the couple's son, Robert Jr., when Daniels died, said her husband had been told to give up racing because he had a heart condition.

Los Angeles Whips Cubs, 7-2

Dodgers Hold 1½ Margin As Reds Split With Bucs

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Lefebvre might not have received a grade at the time, but he certainly deserves an A plus for the bat boy course he took six years ago.

Lefebvre, Los Angeles' rookie second baseman, put his education to good use Sunday as the Dodgers edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 11 innings and increased their National League lead to 1½ games over the Cincinnati Reds.

The 22-year-old switch hitter tied the game with a two-run single in the ninth inning, then lashed a double in the 11th, driving in the winning run.

The performance indicated that Lefebvre is emerging from a slump that saw him bat only .169 in the past month. His two hits Sunday brought his over-all average to .227, still far blow his early season showing.

But Lefebvre is carrying out the lesson he learned as visiting team batboy with the Dodgers when he was 16.

"The players talked baseball and worked with me on the field before games," he recalls. "The main thing I learned is that when a good ball player is down, he always bounces back.

"The idea is to stay with it, don't get discouraged and keep hustling. Things will start going for you."

In other NL games, Cincinnati stopped Pittsburgh 8-4 after losing 6-5, Milwaukee swept New York 5-1 and 5-4, Houston defeated San Francisco 5-2 and St. Louis trimmed Philadelphia 3-1.

In the American League, Los Angeles beat Minnesota before bowing 5-4, Kansas City knocked off Chicago 7-5 after losing 3-2 in 10 innings, Boston defeated Cleveland 4-1, Baltimore trimmed Detroit 4-1 and Washington blanked New York 3-0.

The Dodgers trailed the Cubs 3-1 going into the ninth, but they loaded the bases and Lefebvre smacked a two-out single for two runs. Then in the 11th, Bob Hendley walked Wes Parker, and Lefebvre followed with a double to right-center field.

Vada Pinson drove in three runs while Tony Perez and Pete Rose each added a pair, helping Cincinnati's Joey Jay to a victory in his first start in three weeks. Jay brought his record to 7-2 in the nightcap, receiving relief help from Bill McCall in the eighth inning.

The Pirates won the opener with four runs in the eighth. Willie Stargell, who earlier socked his 22nd homer with a man aboard, ignited the rally with a single, Roberto Clemente tied the game 4-4 with a two-run double and Andre Rogers won it with a run-scoring single.

Milwaukee extended its winning streak to six and the Mets' losing streak to eight. Ed Mathews collected his 18th and 19th homers in the first game as Tony Cloninger, 11-8, pitched a six-hitter.

Gene Oliver's two-run homer following Hank Aaron's single in the third inning won the nightcap. The blow helped erase a 3-0 lead the Mets built in the first inning, two of the runs scoring on Bobby Klaus' bases-loaded double.

Nellie Fox triggered a three-run first inning that carried Houston past San Francisco. Fox singled and came around on singles by Lee Maye and Jim Wynn. Maye scored on Rusty Staub's infield grounder, and Ron Brand singled in Wynn.

St. Louis downed Philadelphia on home runs by Lou Brock and Tim McCarver plus a run on a third strike passed ball. Dick Groat singled in the first inning after Brock homered, moved to third as Phil Gagliano singled and raced home when catcher Pat Corrales missed the third strike to Curt Flood.

Kelso Will Start In Brooklyn Run

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kelso, bidding for his sixth straight Horse of the Year title, can take a big step in that direction Saturday and at the same time move within shouting distance of the $2 million mark in money earnings.

The popular 8-year-old gelding from Mrs. Richard C. DuPont's Bohemia Stable is scheduled to make his third start of the year in the $100,000-added Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct.

The 1¼-mile Brooklyn is the major event on this week's thoroughbred racing program, which also includes the $100,000-added Hollywood Juvenile Championship for 2-year-olds at Hollywood Park.

Kelso easily won the Diamond State at Delaware Park July 10 after finishing third in a warm-up sprint. He is only $91,936 short of being the first horse ever to earn $2 million. The Brooklyn winner should take home around $70,000.

Out of last Saturday's races came two definite thoughts: 1, the Horse of the Year title cannot be awarded without giving serious consideration to Native Diver and 2, Tom Rolfe is the best 3-year-old around until results prove otherwise.

Native Diver, known all along as a top flight sprinter, showed he can carry his speed 1¼ miles by scoring a front-running five-length victory in the $162,100 Gold Cup at Hollywood Park.

In posting his 22nd career stakes triumph, all in California, Native Diver carried 127 pounds over the distance in 2:00 1-5 and earned $102,100. Argentine-bred Babington was a surprise second and Hill Rise third.

While Hail to All was faltering in the $82,150 Dwyer at Aqueduct, little Tom Rolfe moved to the head of the class in the 3-year-old division with a 3½ length triumph in the $53,500 Citation at Arlington Park.

Raymond Guest's colt, winner of the Preakness and a narrow loser to Hail to All in the Belmont Stakes, carried 126 pounds, including Bill Shoemaker, over the mile in 1:36 1-5.

Hail to All displayed his usual stretch kick in the 1¼ miles of the Dwyer but it wasn't enough and he finished third with Staunchness, a $25,000 claim two months ago, beating lightly regarded Duc de Great by four lengths in 2:01 4-5.

Carol's Spurt Short As Kathy Wins Again

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Carol Mann, the 6-foot-3 U.S. Open champion who shared the lead on the first day of the $15,000 Yankee Open Golf Tournament, lost to Kathy Whitworth, but Miss Mann took the defeat in stride.

"I have no excuses," said Carol afterwards. "I just didn't hit the putt hard enough — it was a straight-in putt."

Miss Mann, of Towson, Md., tried to match Kathy's five-stroke lead with a rush of birdies going into the final nine of the 54-hole tourney. She finished with 215, two behind Miss Whitworth.

Carol was tripped up when she three-putted the 17th hole — missing her second try from 18 inches.

Dan Fisher drove in the winning run with a clutch single in the sixth inning to give Osborn's Barbers a 7-6 victory over Scafide's. Ed Oliver's grand slam home run in the fourth inning was the big blow for the Barbers. Fisher was the winning pitcher in relief with Jim Clunk the loser.

Jim Busby, a coach with the Houston Astros, was traded five times during his major league playing career.

Littler Outlasts Jack To Win Canadian Title

TORONTO (AP) — Gene Littler is $20,000 richer today because he made a change in his putting style three weeks ago.

Littler withstood a challenge by Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, over the final nine holes of the 72-hole Canadian Open Golf Championship Saturday to win the title and the $20,000 purse.

Littler, who plays out of Las Vegas, Nev., feels he never could have done it if he hadn't made a slight alteration in his putting at the St. Paul Open three weeks ago.

Littler finished one stroke ahead of Nicklaus by making a four-foot pressure putt on the 18th hole after the two were tied for second place going into the last day.

Littler was four under par with a 66 on the last 18 holes after earlier rounds of 70, 68 and 69. Nicklaus, playing in a threesome ahead of Littler, knew his opponent was a stroke ahead of him and went for a 12-foot birdie putt on the 18th, hoping to tie and force a sudden-death playoff.

But the putt slid past the side of the cup and left Nicklaus in second place with $12,000.

Australian Bruce Devlin, the leader after three rounds, lost his two-stroke margin on the final day by ballooning to a 74 and finished in an eighth-place tie. Devlin had been suffering from a sore left shoulder, a mild throat infection and varicose veins throughout the $100,000 tournament.

Littler and Nicklaus, along with Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., and Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., entered the final day's play with three-round scores of 207.

Rudolph finished with a steady 71 for 278 and a share of third place with first-round leader Joe Campbell of Perdido Bay, Fla., tour rookie Homero Blancas of Houston, Tex., Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash., and Randy Glover of Florence, S.C. All collected $4,760.

But Palmer had a disastrous round, skyrocketing to a 76 for 283 and ended up in 23rd place, and $1,000.

Bernie Allen Headed For Denver Club

Bernie Allen, infielder for the Minnesota Twins, will return to Denver of the Pacific Coast League later this week. Allen who has been hampered by a knee injury, was sent to Denver last month and returned to the Twins 10 days later.

With Minnesota he was used at third base and second base and has seen duty as a pinch hitter coming up with several key hits for the first place Twins.

He is expected to remain at the Twins farm club until the season ends there sometime in September.

Los Angeles Whips Cubs, 7-2

Dodgers Hold 1½ Margin As Reds Split With Bucs

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Lefebvre might not have received a grade at the time, but he certainly deserves an A plus for the bat boy course he took six years ago.

Lefebvre, Los Angeles' rookie second baseman, put his education to good use Sunday as the Dodgers edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 11 innings and increased their National League lead to 1½ games over the Cincinnati Reds.

The 22-year-old switch hitter tied the game with a two-run single in the ninth inning, then lashed a double in the 11th, driving in the winning run.

The performance indicated that Lefebvre is emerging from a slump that saw him bat only .169 in the past month. His two hits Sunday brought his over-all average to .227, still far blow his early season showing.

But Lefebvre is carrying out the lesson he learned as visiting team batboy with the Dodgers when he was 16.

"The players talked baseball and worked with me on the field before games," he recalls. "The main thing I learned is that when a good ball player is down, he always bounces back.

"The idea is to stay with it, don't get discouraged and keep hustling. Things will start going for you."

In other NL games, Cincinnati stopped Pittsburgh 8-4 after losing 6-5, Milwaukee swept New York 5-1 and 5-4, Houston defeated San Francisco 5-2 and St. Louis trimmed Philadelphia 3-1.

In the American League, Los Angeles beat Minnesota before bowing 5-4, Kansas City knocked off Chicago 7-5 after losing 3-2 in 10 innings, Boston defeated Cleveland 4-1, Baltimore trimmed Detroit 4-1 and Washington blanked New York 3-0.

The Dodgers trailed the Cubs 3-1 going into the ninth, but they loaded the bases and Lefebvre smacked a two-out single for two runs. Then in the 11th, Bob Hendley walked Wes Parker, and Lefebvre followed with a double to right-center field.

Vada Pinson drove in three runs while Tony Perez and Pete Rose each added a pair, helping Cincinnati's Joey Jay to a victory in his first start in three weeks. Jay brought his record to 7-2 in the nightcap, receiving relief help from Bill McCall in the eighth inning.

The Pirates won the opener with four runs in the eighth. Willie Stargell, who earlier socked his 22nd homer with a man aboard, ignited the rally with a single, Roberto Clemente tied the game 4-4 with a two-run double and Andre Rogers won it with a run-scoring single.

Milwaukee extended its winning streak to six and the Mets' losing streak to eight. Ed Mathews collected his 18th and 19th homers in the first game as Tony Cloninger, 11-8, pitched a six-hitter.

Gene Oliver's two-run homer following Hank Aaron's single in the third inning won the nightcap. The blow helped erase a 3-0 lead the Mets built in the first inning, two of the runs scoring on Bobby Klaus' bases-loaded double.

Nellie Fox triggered a three-run first inning that carried Houston past San Francisco. Fox singled and came around on singles by Lee Maye and Jim Wynn. Maye scored on Rusty Staub's infield grounder, and Ron Brand singled in Wynn.

St. Louis downed Philadelphia on home runs by Lou Brock and Tim McCarver plus a run on a third strike passed ball. Dick Groat singled in the first inning after Brock homered, moved to third as Phil Gagliano singled and raced home when catcher Pat Corrales missed the third strike to Curt Flood.

Kelso Will Start In Brooklyn Run

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kelso, bidding for his sixth straight Horse of the Year title, can take a big step in that direction Saturday and at the same time move within shouting distance of the $2 million mark in money earnings.

The popular 8-year-old gelding from Mrs. Richard C. DuPont's Bohemia Stable is scheduled to make his third start of the year in the $100,000-added Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct.

The 1¼-mile Brooklyn is the major event on this week's thoroughbred racing program, which also includes the $100,000-added Hollywood Juvenile Championship for 2-year-olds at Hollywood Park.

Kelso easily won the Diamond State at Delaware Park July 10 after finishing third in a warm-up sprint. He is only $91,936 short of being the first horse ever to earn $2 million. The Brooklyn winner should take home around $70,000.

Out of last Saturday's races came two definite thoughts: 1, the Horse of the Year title cannot be awarded without giving serious consideration to Native Diver and 2, Tom Rolfe is the best 3-year-old around until results prove otherwise.

Native Diver, known all along as a top flight sprinter, showed he can carry his speed 1¼ miles by scoring a front-running five-length victory in the $162,100 Gold Cup at Hollywood Park.

In posting his 22nd career stakes triumph, all in California, Native Diver carried 127 pounds over the distance in 2:00 1-5 and earned $102,100. Argentine-bred Babington was a surprise second and Hill Rise third.

While Hail to All was faltering in the $82,150 Dwyer at Aqueduct, little Tom Rolfe moved to the head of the class in the 3-year-old division with a 3½ length triumph in the $53,500 Citation at Arlington Park.

Raymond Guest's colt, winner of the Preakness and a narrow loser to Hail to All in the Belmont Stakes, carried 126 pounds, including Bill Shoemaker, over the mile in 1:36 1-5.

Hail to All displayed his usual stretch kick in the 1¼ miles of the Dwyer but it wasn't enough and he finished third with Staunchness, a $25,000 claim two months ago, beating lightly regarded Duc de Great by four lengths in 2:01 4-5.

Carol's Spurt Short As Kathy Wins Again

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Carol Mann, the 6-foot-3 U.S. Open champion who shared the lead on the first day of the $15,000 Yankee Open Golf Tournament, lost to Kathy Whitworth, but Miss Mann took the defeat in stride.

"I have no excuses," said Carol afterwards. "I just didn't hit the putt hard enough — it was a straight-in putt."

Miss Mann, of Towson, Md., tried to match Kathy's five-stroke lead with a rush of birdies going into the final nine of the 54-hole tourney. She finished with 215, two behind Miss Whitworth.

Carol was tripped up when she three-putted the 17th hole — missing her second try from 18 inches.

Giant Manager Receives $5,000 Raise From Boss

By RON BERGMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Because of the job being done with Willie Mays and without Orlando Cepeda, owner Horace Stoneham has given Herman Franks a new contract at higher pay to manage the San Francisco Giants through 1966.

Displaying one of his huge cigars in the middle of an even larger smile, Franks signed his new contract on Saturday at Candlestick Park.

Terms were undisclosed. But it was reported the contract calls for a raise from $35,000 to $40,000 a year retroactive to the beginning of this season.

"I think that we are in a very fine position to overtake the leaders," said Stoneham of his third-place club. "And this in spite of a succession of injuries that has made the job most difficult for Herman.

"The way he's handled these setbacks and the way he's handled the case of Willie Mays, who now needs rest, has impressed me very much," added Stoneham about his rookie manager.

Mays has been rested eight times this season at his request and leads the National League in both batting and home runs.

The most prominent injury to the Giants has left them without slugging first baseman Orlando Cepeda. In spring practice he reinjured the right knee operated on last Dec. 7. Cepeda left for the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., shortly before the 50-year-old Franks was rehired.

Californian Wins Public Links Crown

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The National Public Links Golf Championship was back in California today for the 13th time in the tournament's 40-year history.

Arne Dokka, a slender 21-year-old business and finance student from Studio City, won the title Saturday, crushing Leo Zampedro, 24-year-old Warren, Ohio, fireman, 10 and 9.

It was the biggest margin of victory in the tournament's history, breaking the record set by Carl Kauffmann, who defeated Phil Odgen 8 and 7 at Cobb's Creek in Philadelphia in 1928.

Dokka, a native of Norway who came to this country after World War II, played flawless golf, dispaying the experience gained as a semifinalist in last year's Publinx and big national college tournaments.

Next year's tournament will be played at Brown Deer golf course in Milwaukee.

15-Hour Sit-Down Staged By Zoo Camel

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Greta, the camel, sulked when they tried to move her into a luxurious new home at Bristol Zoo.

She sniffed contemptuously at the new enclosure and then sat down for 15 hours. The 20-year-old camel wouldn't eat or move.

It rained but she sat there, damp and dignified.

Finally, zoo authorities gave in. Greta was allowed to go back to her old home.

All-Stars Top 1954 Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — If the 1965 Cleveland Indians hope to match the record of the 1954 championship team, they'll have to do some fancy stepping.

On this date in 1954 the Indians were zipping along at .682 clip, with 60 victories and 28 losses, and by the end of the season they had zoomed to a record 111 victories, winding up eight games ahead of the second-place New York Yankees.

The 1965 Tribe was 51-36 Sunday.

The old-timers went three innings against the 1954 All-Stars in a nostalagia-filled exhibition that preceded the regular game, and Cleveland's heroes of 1954 didn't get a hit.

Yogi Berra provided the only runs of the game, driving a three-run homer into the right field bull pen off Art Houtteman.

Bob Feller, Bob Lemon, Early Wynn, Mike Garcia, Ray Narleski, and Dave Hoskins also took turns on the mounds for the 1954 Indians.

Then the 1965 Indians took the field and couldn't get a hit in the right place—although they racked up seven hits to nine for the Red Sox.

Boston starter Dave Morehead limited the Tribe to two hits over the first five innings. Max Alvis slammed his 16th homer of the season over the fence in left in the sixth inning, Rocky Colavito walked, Fred Whitfield came through with a single—and that was all for Morehead.

But Boston Manager Billy Herman got his "Monster," reliever Dick Radatz, warmed up, and that was all for the Indians.

The Red Sox got on Cleveland starter Jack Kralick for one run in the first inning, when Frank Malzone singled, moved up on Alvis' throwing error and scored on Felix Mantilla's single.

They added two runs in the third and one in the sixth.

Lee Stange pitches tonight against the Baltimore Orioles.

Bernie Parrish Back On Roster Of Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Defensive halfback Bernie Parrish, who retired from professional football with the Cleveland Browns last Thursday, asked today to return to active duty and went back on the roster.

Parrish, 29, was fined $100 a day, a total of $400, for training time missed.

"I had some things to get straight in my own mind, and found I missed football a lot more than I thought I did," Parrish said.

Parrish signed two months ago for the 1965 season, and caught the training camp by surprise last week when he announced he no longer had the desire to continue playing.

Firemen Quell Blaze In Old Senate Offices

WASHINGTON (AP)—A fire in the basement of the old Senate office building sent fire equipment racing to Capitol Hill Sunday night.

Officials said the blaze started from a rain-induced short circuit and was confined mainly to some business machines.

Miss JoAnne Gunderson, three - time winner of the USGA Women's Amateur golf championship, was runnerup in 1956 and again in 1964.

Flockenzier Birdies Way To Ohio Amateur Crown

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—"I don't feel like an Amateur champion. It probably will hit me two days from now."

That was easy - going Dick Flockenzier's reaction Sunday after he rode a wave of birdies to the 59th Ohio Amateur Golf Championship.

The 39 - year - old Mansfield manufacturer's agent scored a 2-up victory over stubborn Bill Bosshard of Akron in a stiring 36-hole duel over the Westbrook Country Club's 6,414-yard, par-72 layout.

Flockenzier did it the hard way, coming from four holes down with only 14 to play to register his satisfying triumph.

"I felt I could catch him. I was never worried. Really, I didn't feel a bit of pressure," the hometown favorite confided.

Bosshard, a spunky 28-year-old car wash owner who has been playing golf only eight years, was philosophical in defeat.

"It's a long way to walk only to lose," he said. "I played as well as I could but he was better. I was putting well, but the ball just wouldn't drop for me."

Ann putting provided the difference, too. Flockenzier, who never before had advanced past the second round in six Ohio Amateur tries, putted brilliantly to overcome an erratic driver.

Trailing by four holes, Flockenzier didn't allow his foe to win another hole, while he scored on six, five coming as a result of birdies.

The scrambling Flockenzier nailed down his title on the 152-yard 35th hole when he placed his six iron tee shot two feet from the cup. He calmly sank his putt to go 1-up and then sealed the verdict with a superb 22-footer on the finale hole.

Along the title path, Flockenzier disposed of Don Nist of Canton, 2 and 1; 1960 king Dan Carmichael of Columbus, 3 and 2; Ed Sneed Jr., of Columbus, 5 and 3; Dr. Harry Duccilli of Cincinnati, 1-up in 21 holes and veteran Steve Pipoly of Youngstown, 8 and 7, in Saturday's 36-hole semifinal.

Bosshard turned in a major upset when he ousted two-time winner Tony Blom of Cincinnati, 2-up, in the other semi-final tiff.

Ralston Expects To Be At Peak By Davis Cup Time

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Dennis Ralston's game is nearing perfection and he hopes to reach his peak when he competes in the American Zone Davis Cup tennis finals at Dallas July 31.

Ralston, recalling some advice given him by professional star Pancho Gonzales, retained his National Clay Courts Championship Sunday with a 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, triumph over young Cliff Richey at the River Forest Club.

Nancy Richey, Cliff's sister, won an unprecedented third straight National Clay Courts women's title, defeating Julie Heldman of New York 5-7, 6-3, 9-6.

Ralston, trailing Richey 4-1 in the first set, said he remembered Gonzales once told him to throw the ball a little higher on serves when you are behind.

"I did it and came out smelling like a rose," said Ralston. "My game against Richey was my best on clay since Wimbledon. It was the first time in a long time I was able to get my serve in with consistency. I hit two of the best serves of my career and Richey couldn't recover."

Richey, an 18-year-old who won the Western Championship in Milwaukee the previous week and expected to be the No. 2 man on the Davis Cup team, complained that he was distracted because his match started while his sister was still playing in the next court.

"It shouldn't have bothered me but it did," moaned Richey, who was left off the Davis Cup team because of a squabble with nonplaying Capt. George MacCall.

Mexican Netters Win, Will Face U.S. Team

South Africa and Spain have reached the finals of the European Zone Davis Cup tournament while Mexico, as expected, has reached the American Zone finals against the United States.

Mexico clinched its spot against the United States Sunday with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 doubles triumph over New Zealand. The victory gave the Mexicans an unbeatable 3-0 lead in the best-of-five competition and made the results of today's two final singles matches academic.

The Mexicans, led by former U.S. National champion Rafael Osuna and veteran Antonio Palafox, will play the United States at Dallas, starting July 31, for the American Zone title.

Spain wrapped up a 4-1 triumph over Czechoslovakia with a split of the final singles at Prague, while South Africa won the final two singles for a 4-1 edge over France at Paris.

Giant Manager Receives $5,000 Raise From Boss

By RON BERGMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Because of the job being done with Willie Mays and without Orlando Cepeda, owner Horace Stoneham has given Herman Franks a new contract at higher pay to manage the San Francisco Giants through 1966.

Displaying one of his huge cigars in the middle of an even larger smile, Franks signed his new contract on Saturday at Candlestick Park.

Terms were undisclosed. But it was reported the contract calls for a raise from $35,000 to $40,000 a year retroactive to the beginning of this season.

"I think that we are in a very fine position to overtake the leaders," said Stoneham of his third-place club. "And this in spite of a succession of injuries that has made the job most difficult for Herman.

"The way he's handled these setbacks and the way he's handled the case of Willie Mays, who now needs rest, has impressed me very much," added Stoneham about his rookie manager.

Mays has been rested eight times this season at his request and leads the National League in both batting and home runs.

The most prominent injury to the Giants has left them without slugging first baseman Orlando Cepeda. In spring practice he reinjured the right knee operated on last Dec. 7. Cepeda left for the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., shortly before the 50-year-old Franks was rehired.

Flockenzier Birdies Way To Ohio Amateur Crown

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—"I don't feel like an Amateur champion. It probably will hit me two days from now."

That was easy - going Dick Flockenzier's reaction Sunday after he rode a wave of birdies to the 59th Ohio Amateur Golf Championship.

The 39 - year - old Mansfield manufacturer's agent scored a 2-up victory over stubborn Bill Bosshard of Akron in a stiring 36-hole duel over the Westbrook Country Club's 6,414-yard, par-72 layout.

Flockenzier did it the hard way, coming from four holes down with only 14 to play to register his satisfying triumph.

"I felt I could catch him. I was never worried. Really, I didn't feel a bit of pressure," the hometown favorite confided.

Bosshard, a spunky 28-year-old car wash owner who has been playing golf only eight years, was philosophical in defeat.

"It's a long way to walk only to lose," he said. "I played as well as I could but he was better. I was putting well, but the ball just wouldn't drop for me."

Ann putting provided the difference, too. Flockenzier, who never before had advanced past the second round in six Ohio Amateur tries, putted brilliantly to overcome an erratic driver.

Trailing by four holes, Flockenzier didn't allow his foe to win another hole, while he scored on six, five coming as a result of birdies.

The scrambling Flockenzier nailed down his title on the 152-yard 35th hole when he placed his six iron tee shot two feet from the cup. He calmly sank his putt to go 1-up and then sealed the verdict with a superb 22-footer on the finale hole.

Along the title path, Flockenzier disposed of Don Nist of Canton, 2 and 1; 1960 king Dan Carmichael of Columbus, 3 and 2; Ed Sneed Jr., of Columbus, 5 and 3; Dr. Harry Duccilli of Cincinnati, 1-up in 21 holes and veteran Steve Pipoly of Youngstown, 8 and 7, in Saturday's 36-hole semifinal.

Bosshard turned in a major upset when he ousted two-time winner Tony Blom of Cincinnati, 2-up, in the other semi-final tiff.

Californian Wins Public Links Crown

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The National Public Links Golf Championship was back in California today for the 13th time in the tournament's 40-year history.

Arne Dokka, a slender 21-year-old business and finance student from Studio City, won the title Saturday, crushing Leo Zampedro, 24-year-old Warren, Ohio, fireman, 10 and 9.

It was the biggest margin of victory in the tournament's history, breaking the record set by Carl Kauffmann, who defeated Phil Odgen 8 and 7 at Cobb's Creek in Philadelphia in 1928.

Dokka, a native of Norway who came to this country after World War II, played flawless golf, dispaying the experience gained as a semifinalist in last year's Publinx and big national college tournaments.

Next year's tournament will be played at Brown Deer golf course in Milwaukee.

15-Hour Sit-Down Staged By Zoo Camel

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Greta, the camel, sulked when they tried to move her into a luxurious new home at Bristol Zoo.

She sniffed contemptuously at the new enclosure and then sat down for 15 hours. The 20-year-old camel wouldn't eat or move.

It rained but she sat there, damp and dignified.

Finally, zoo authorities gave in. Greta was allowed to go back to her old home.

All-Stars Top 1954 Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — If the 1965 Cleveland Indians hope to match the record of the 1954 championship team, they'll have to do some fancy stepping.

On this date in 1954 the Indians were zipping along at .682 clip, with 60 victories and 28 losses, and by the end of the season they had zoomed to a record 111 victories, winding up eight games ahead of the second-place New York Yankees.

The 1965 Tribe was 51-36 Sunday.

The old-timers went three innings against the 1954 All-Stars in a nostalagia-filled exhibition that preceded the regular game, and Cleveland's heroes of 1954 didn't get a hit.

Yogi Berra provided the only runs of the game, driving a three-run homer into the right field bull pen off Art Houtteman.

Bob Feller, Bob Lemon, Early Wynn, Mike Garcia, Ray Narleski, and Dave Hoskins also took turns on the mounds for the 1954 Indians.

Then the 1965 Indians took the field and couldn't get a hit in the right place—although they racked up seven hits to nine for the Red Sox.

Boston starter Dave Morehead limited the Tribe to two hits over the first five innings. Max Alvis slammed his 16th homer of the season over the fence in left in the sixth inning. Rocky Colavito walked, Fred Whitfield came through with a single—and that was all for Morehead.

But Boston Manager Billy Herman got his "Monster," reliever Dick Radatz, warmed up, and that was all for the Indians.

The Red Sox got on Cleveland starter Jack Kralick for one run in the first inning, when Frank Malzone singled, moved up on Alvis' throwing error and scored on Felix Mantilla's single.

They added two runs in the third and one in the sixth.

Lee Stange pitches tonight against the Baltimore Orioles.

Bernie Parrish Back On Roster Of Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Defensive halfback Bernie Parrish, who retired from professional football with the Cleveland Browns last Thursday, asked today to return to active duty and went back on the roster.

Parrish, 29, was fined $100 a day, a total of $400, for training time missed.

"I had some things to get straight in my own mind, and found I missed football a lot more than I thought I did," Parrish said.

Parrish signed two months ago for the 1965 season, and caught the training camp by surprise last week when he announced he no longer had the desire to continue playing.

Officials said the blaze started from a rain-induced short circuit and was confined mainly to some business machines.

Miss JoAnne Gunderson, three - time winner of the USGA Women's Amateur golf championship, was runnerup in 1956 and again in 1964.

Ralston Expects To Be At Peak By Davis Cup Time

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Dennis Ralston's game is nearing perfection and he hopes to reach his peak when he competes in the American Zone Davis Cup tennis finals at Dallas July 31.

Ralston, recalling some advice given him by professional star Pancho Gonzales, retained his National Clay Courts Championship Sunday with a 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, triumph over young Cliff Richey at the River Forest Club.

Nancy Richey, Cliff's sister, won an unprecedented third straight National Clay Courts women's title, defeating Julie Heldman of New York 5-7, 6-3, 9-6.

Ralston, trailing Richey 4-1 in the first set, said he remembered Gonzales once told him to throw the ball a little higher on serves when you are behind.

"I did it and came out smelling like a rose," said Ralston. "My game against Richey was my best on clay since Wimbledon. It was the first time in a long time I was able to get my serve in with consistency. I hit two of the best serves of my career and Richey couldn't recover."

Richey, an 18-year-old who won the Western Championship in Milwaukee the previous week and expected to be the No. 2 man on the Davis Cup team, complained that he was distracted because his match started while his sister was still playing in the next court.

"It shouldn't have bothered me but it did," moaned Richey, who was left off the Davis Cup team because of a squabble with nonplaying Capt. George MacCall.

Interior Architect Enters Scene

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In neglecting his role in home building, the modern architect has created a new one.

The role has been taken over by the interior designer who has now become an interior architect, says Mary Dunn, president of the American Institute of Interior Designers.

"The architect flees from a home without really leaving a vestige of architectural detail inside. What we deplore is that he is no longer interested in providing little details, so that we are called upon to put in moldings, cornices, bookcases, enclose television and hi-fi, add additional closet space, and so on," she points out.

IN OTHER eras architects took care of details that were required. But today's architect has refused to grow with the demand of the times, she says.

"So now we have an interior designer who is no longer a fellow who picks up little samples and brings them to his client for an okay. He is a professional designer capable of taking an area of space and making it into an attractive functional home for his clients, even if it is just a box when he arrives on the scene. And he doesn't stop at the front door. He takes in the complete environment — outdoors and in," she says.

All of this is going to result in a new name for the interior designer, when they find one that encompasses all of his talents.

THE GROWTH of the interior design field has been phenomenal in the last 12 years, she says.

Their own membership has increased from 900 to well over 4,000 members in the United States during that time. Their recent annual meetings in New York attracted members from the Orient, New Zealand, Europe and outer Islands.

"Scope for the designer's talents includes the whole field of graphics. He may take a whole building and lay it out as an architect would, and he must respond to a need for any phase of design in a building," she says.

One reason for the growth of interior designers is paradoxically the do-it-yourself movement which Miss Dunn feels is on the wane, but which created tremendous interest in the home and an appreciation of workmanship.

"I WOULDN'T say it is completely dead. But the average do-it-yourselfer found that when he came to bad spots, he needed help, if the job was to be done right. We encourage people to keep adding their own touches, of course. The role of the interior designer is to make the home functional — properly scaled furniture and all the architectural necessities. But when it comes to such personal taste as art, the home owner must choose his own. Once he makes the decision, we can help him plan out the placement of it."

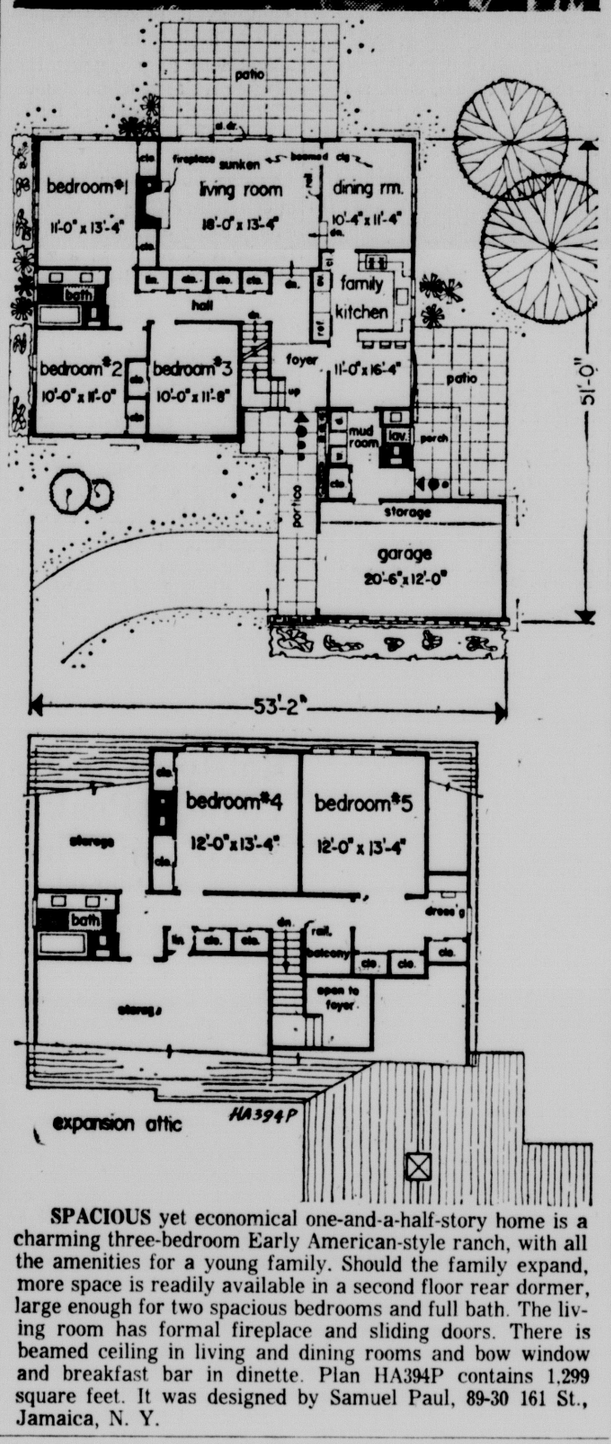

A room is complete only when it reflects the owners' personality and their way of life, so he must put a lot of himself into it, she say.

Until recent years, the interior designer's role was complicated by the short - sightedness of many manufacturers. But now they are offering services "more and more to manufacturers to assist them before something is put into production," she points out.

Interior designers are designing furniture, light fixtures, hardware, kitchen cabinets, and just about any other thing needed in a home.

He designs to fill up space to its best possible advantage, whether it is a corner cupboard, a wall bracket or an occasional table.

SPACIOUS yet economical one-and-a-half-story home is a charming three-bedroom Early American-style ranch, with all the amenities for a young family. Should the family expand, more space is readily available in a second floor rear dormer, large enough for two spacious bedrooms and full bath. The living room has formal fireplace and sliding doors. There is beamed ceiling in living and dining rooms and bow window and breakfast bar in dinette. Plan HA394P contains 1,299 square feet. It was designed by Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Plywood Tape

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

It Covers The Edges Neatly

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Because plywood is made of thin sheets of wood glued together under heat and pressure, its edges have a lined or seamed effect.

When the plywood is to be used in a project where the edges will be hidden, nothing more is required than a coat of sealer, a precaution necessary to prevent the entrance of moisture. But when the edges will be visible, some effort usually is made to cover or disguise them.

THE HOME handyman has a number of possibilities open to him. He can paint the edges, bevel them, cover them with wooden strips or special mouldings, apply laminated plastic, use aluminum or stainless steel channels, or attach what is called plywood tape.

The advantage of the tape —actually rolled - up wood veneer — is that it can be obtained in matching or contrasting colors.

These colors are not painted on, but are the real shades of the wood from which they were stripped. Thus, if you are using birch plywood, you need only to ask for birch tape (or wood trim, as it sometimes is called) to be sure of a reasonably good match.

The same kind of finish can be used on the tape as on the remainder of the table, bookcase, cabinet or whatever.

PLYWOOD TAPE is attached with ordinary wood glue or one of the various forms of contact adhesive.

In the first case, clamps must be used to keep the tape firmly against the edges until the glue has set. In the second, it is necessary only to apply the cement to both surfaces, wait a few minutes, then join.

However, contact cement grips instantly and will not let go, so it is important that the tape be pressed against the edges with great care. The tape, by the way, can be cut easily with ordinary scissors.

Some years ago, we saw a well - built plywood table with an ultramodern look.

On closer inspection, we discovered that the edges of the plywood were exposed, but had an odd yet striking appearance, almost like a piece of burnt toast with lines running through it. Questioning the man who made the table, we found that, using a power sander, he had deliberately held the sander tightly against the plywood edges until the friction created smoke. The result: a seared effect of unusual quality.

Walkout Called Blow To Viet Nam Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor says the six-week maritime strike is hurting the U.S. effort in Viet Nam.

He called the walkout intolerable and against the public interest, and added: "The particular union that called the strike has made demands that are quite inflationary and quite unreasonable."

Asked Sunday on NBC's radio-television program "Meet the Press" whether the strike was having an impact on transportation of supplies to Viet Nam, the secretary replied: "It is at the present time because some of the ships that were counted on to carry supplies were unavailable."

Joe Adcock, first baseman for the Los Angeles Angels, is the oldest player on the team. He will be 38 on Oct. 30.

Textured Paint Seen As Solution To Attic Problem

Question: About four years ago I put up gypsum wallboard in our attic.

I had never done anything of this kind before and did not get as smooth a job as I expected. There is a kind of unevenness around the seams and where some of the nails were put in, although everything seems to be solid.

Now I'd like to repaint the wallboard and wonder if there is anything I can do to make certain areas a bit smoother.

Answer: If there are a few definite low spots in the wallboard, you probably can even them up with the surrounding surfaces by using the same kind of cement used originally.

But you would have to be very skillful for the patchwork not to be noticeable. If the uneven spots are many in number, you'd have a herculean task. A much better way to rectify the lack of perfection would be to use textured paint. It has a rough surface and probably will hide all the defects.

Follow the directions on the container, using two coats if necessary. Textured paint can produce highly interesting results. It comes in many decorator colors and these days often is used in expensive homes, in contrast to the time when it was applied mainly for the purpose of covering unattractive surfaces.

Question: You said recently that anyone over 65 doesn't have to pay income tax on the profit made on the sale of his house, if certain conditions prevail.

I bought an income tax book about a year ago and, after reading your article, looked it up. I can't find anything in there about it? Are you sure you're right?

Answer: Yes, The book probably was written before the law went into effect. Incidentally, you were one of several persons who questioned that statement.

Question: You said recently that anyone over 65 doesn't have to pay income tax on the profit made on the sale of his house, if certain conditions prevail.

I bought an income tax book about a year ago and, after reading your article, looked it up. I can't find anything in there about it? Are you sure you're right?

Answer: Yes. The book probably was written before the law went into effect. Incidentally, you were one of several persons who questioned that statement.

Lightly-Built Roofs Can Be Braced Easily

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

There are an unbelievable number of houses in this country which come under the heading of summer shacks, seashore bungalows, lakeside cabins and so on.

The great majority of these are very lightly built and many are lacking in the structural details which produce a really substantial dwelling. As a matter of fact, it might be said that this even applies to houses which are supposed to be more than just a temporary shelter.

Let's take, for example, the skeleton or frame of a light house.

It will be noted that the roof rafters slant down and rest upon the plate which is supported by the wall studs. The ends of the rafters are not notched out as they should be, so that the actual bearing they have on the plate is practically nothing.

Heavy winds against the roof surface cannot help but move and work a roof so supported. The result will be a completely unsound roof which will start to leak before very long.

This condition can be remedied without rebuilding the roof frame, and it can be done easily and economically by any home owner.

The procedure recommended is to cut filler - pieces of 2-by-4 stock and lay them in between the rafters where they rest on the plate. They are then spiked in place securely. These pieces should be cut accurately and be a tight fit. Once in place, they will brace the rafters and add tremendously to the strength of the entire roof structure.

It is estimated that the average small house could be so braced and strengthened in half a day, and by any amateur capable of handling a hammer and a saw.

Believe It Or Not, Now's Time For Heat Unit Check

During the hot, steamy days of summer, the last thing most home owners want to think about is the efficiency of their heating system.

Actually, there's no better time to think about it than right now — while the system is shut down and while heating contractors are not as busy as they become in the fall and winter.

The Plumbing - Heating-Cooling Information Bureau of Chicago points out that many heating contractors will inspect and service your system now at special summer rates. They'll clean it and check it for parts that may need replacement and repair. Every heating system needs a periodic checkup to work at top efficiency with the greatest fuel savings.

If your heating system is too old and worn out to do an adequate job of heating your home, this is the best time to replace it—again because it's shut down and because heating contractors are readily available. This is the right time of the year, too, to replace old - fashioned radiators with unobtrusive, space-saving, modern radiation.

Clyde King, pitching coach with the Pittsburgh Pirates, compiled a 32-25 major league record.

Screens, Plants Aid View

WINDOWS OVERLOOK THE DRIVEWAY? Here's how to redesign the view. First screen the drive with a crisp fence, here 1-by-4s set in panels of five alternating with a piece 5/4-inch square. Next develop a pretty garden court inside with greens, flowering shrubs, potted blooms and rock. Paint or stain western red cedar fencing to match house.

Growing window sizes and shrinking home lots have made garden screens the home owner's best friend.

Of course everyone recognizes the role screens play in guarding the home's privacy, both in the garden and inside the house.

But equally important to this generation is the need for view control. Here again the versatile and obliging garden screen comes to the rescue.

Properly designed and judiciously placed, screens can redesign a view by concealing an uninteresting scene and so allowing development of something more attractive.

FOR EXAMPLE, almost everyone is faced with the rather uninspired appearance of a strip of asphalt joining their garage to the city street. Even if driveway and house are separated by only a few yards, a crisp little screen set on the house side of the driveway's edge will do a fine job of trading one view for another.

Naturally the screen should not become the focal point, but rather the means of creating one. In the case of the driveway, a tiny and pleasant court could be created between the house and screens with a few choice shrubs, ground cover and perhaps a bird bath or feeders for bird enthusiasts.

An attractive pattern for the screens is important, of course, but it could be a very simple pattern. In some cases, an open style will serve the purpose, directing the eye while not actually stopping sight lines.

However, if kitchen or laundry room windows are involved, a more solid style screen may be in order to prevent arriving guests from seeing into these work areas.

—:—

SUCH A SCREEN could be built with western red cedar 1-by-4s applied vertically and spaced a half-inch or so apart.

Another handsome pattern for a low screen comes from setting cedar or fir 1-by-4s between top and bottom 2-by-4 rails, edge-out, with a one - inch spacing between each.

The driveway situation is only one of many that can be cured effectively with a garden screen. A tour through the house may reveal several windows with an uniteresting view that could be redesigned by a bit of good planting and a backdrop set near house walls, at the property line, or midway in the yard.

Moscow's Shoppers To Get Supermarket

MOSCOW (AP)—The supermarket—called the "supersam" in the Communist bloc—is finally coming to Moscow.

The newspaper Evening Moscow published an architect's drawing of the proposed glass and concrete building, inviting comments from readers.

The response was instantaneous. Hundreds of letter writers urged that the store be put up in their neighborhoods.

Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany and other Soviet-bloc countries have had supermarkets for several years.

Hiring Problem

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The public works committee of Chatham County says it is considering hiring day laborers because the supply of county prison inmates is at a record low.

7 Are Hurt Slightly In Unusual Accident

LEONARD, Tex. (AP)—Fannin County Commissioner John Kent looked up from lunch Sunday to see his car crash through the front of a cafe in this north central Texas town.

A tractor-trailer truck, after colliding with another car on the street, whipped into the cafe's parking lot and shoved Kent's unoccupied car inside the building. Seven persons were injured but none hospitalized.

A-Bomb Laboratory Holds 'Open House'

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — Spokesmen estimate 20,000 persons during the weekend toured the laboratory where the first atomic bomb was made.

The occasion was the first open house at Los Alamos scientific laboratory in five years. Some areas of the secret facility were opened to the public for the first time.

The open house was timed to coincide with the 20th anniversary of the first detonation July 16, 1945, of an atomic bomb in southern New Mexico near Alamogordo.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Child's Speech Development Amazing

It can be fun to observe carefully how a little child develops in his speech. To write down his first utterances, adding the new ones you hear every day, not only affords pleasure but also considerable insight into the amazing way in which his speech grows. More than 50 years ago some notes on this subject began to be published. Many have appeared since.

Dr. Garry Myers

I myself kept voluminous notes on the early speech development of our oldest child, about 40 years ago, but have never published them. In these notes I find that in his early speech he had a way of using a single word to express a wide variety of ideas.

—:—

FOR EXAMPLE: When he said: "chicka" (chicken) he meant, a live chicken, chicken meat, chicken feathers, feed the chickens, chicken coop, chicken wire, eggs, gather the eggs, and so forth. As we heard him use this word for various thoughts, we had no trouble knowing what he meant.

While the earlier published studies measured mastery of language in terms of vocabulary size and sentence length, more recent studies have focused on the evaluation of syntax, tracing development of combining words from the earliest expression with more than one word, until the period when the child's speech approximates that of an adult.

In 1964, Bellingi, Brown and Roger were editors of a study of "The Acquisition of Language," monograph of the Society for Research in Child Development, 29, No. 92.

ACCORDING to this study, the child at about the age of one makes his first meaningful utterances. Generally they are single words (daddy, light), and occasionally short phrases used as single words (gimme). They designate an object, a person, or a complex situation.

Many more single unit utterances occur in the following months and, at about 18 months, these units begin to be combined. By the time the youngster is 3½, his speech is very similar to adult speech. There are wide individual differences, of course.

As soon as the child begins combining a second word with a first word, he soon combines several words. His description of a cat lapping milk might progress as follows: "Milk," "kitty drink," "kitty drink milk," "kitty is drinking his milk."

AS THE young child hears an adult speak, he tends to listen to just one or more of the words most meaningful to him. He hears, and later may use, a kind of telegraphic language.

When your child is beginning to use a few words, you may just say "orange," as you show him an orange, instead of saying: "This is an orange." Later you say the whole expression, from which he may imitate with one or more of these words or all of them. When you do things for and with your child's beginning speech, you wisely talk about what you are doing.

As the child hears adult talk normally in the family, he gradually centers his attention on those words and groups of words most meaningful to him, and tends to use them himself.

When you begin reading nursery rhymes and brief stories to him, he may attend mostly only to certain words, groups of words, or sounds that appeal to him most. As you read the same rhyme or story over and over, he attends to more and more of it.

YOUR CHILD'S growth in inner response may be as gradual as the turning of darkness to light at dawn. Though the child beginning to vary verb forms may make a few mistakes as "I goed" for "I went," he gradually takes on amazingly accurate grammar if he hears only correct speech.

Perhaps nothing else can help him so much to acquire easy to correct expression as his being read to continually.

My bulletins, "Why Read to Baby and Young Child?" and "The Young Child's Speech," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Some Exercises For Astronauts Will Be Shelved

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Some training exercises for Gemini 5 astronauts have been junked because of a time shortage, a space official says.

Paul Haney, Manned Spacecraft Center public affairs officer, said Sunday that astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. do not have time enough left between now and the expected Aug. 19 launch date to complete a training schedule laid out for the 8-day flight.

"We have had to cancel planetarium star studies," he said, "and several other exercises." Practicing the proper escape methods from a dummy spacecraft submerged in water are others that have been scrapped, sources say.

Another casualty of the time shortage is individual news interviews with Cooper and Conrad. Haney said the interviews instead would be with all news-gathering agencies asking questions at the same time.

Technical Problems Hold Up Launchings

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The scheduled launching of two Sentry satellites and a tiny pygmy satellite was postponed today because of technical difficulties which delayed the shot beyond the favorable launching time.

The 40-minute window, the time during which the shot could be accomplished in keeping with mission objectives, was extended eight minutes.

The rocket came within less than two minutes of being launched when the shot was called off due to further problems.

Thousands Of Youths Stage Riots In Finland

HELSINKI (AP) — Thousands of youths battled police and firemen in one of several riots in Finland over the weekend.

Some youths among the crowd of 3,000 touched off the biggest riot at nearby Korso when they started dancing during a pop music performance. Authorities had forbidden dancing on Prayer Saturday.

No two snowflakes are exactly alike. Flakes can be austerely simple or fantastically complex. Many have classic six - sided symmetry, but they can assume the shape of prisms, branched stars, needles, pyramids, dumbbells, or strange forms that develop when many crystals cluster together.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Child's Speech Development Amazing

It can be fun to observe carefully how a little child develops in his speech. To write down his first utterances, adding the new ones you hear every day, not only affords pleasure but also considerable insight into the amazing way in which his speech grows.

Dr. Garry Myers

More than 50 years ago some notes on this subject began to be published. Many have appeared since.

I myself kept voluminous notes on the early speech development of our oldest child, about 40 years ago, but have never published them. In these notes I find that in his early speech he had a way of using a single word to express a wide variety of ideas.

FOR EXAMPLE: When he said: "chicka" (chicken) he meant, a live chicken, chicken meat, chicken feathers, feed the chickens, chicken coop, chicken wire, eggs, gather the eggs, and so forth. As we heard him use this word for various thoughts, we had no trouble knowing what he meant.

While the earlier published studies measured mastery of language in terms of vocabulary size and sentence length, more recent studies have focused on the evaluation of syntax, tracing development of combining words from the earliest expression with more than one word, until the period when the child's speech approximates that of an adult.

In 1964, Bellingi, Brown and Roger were editors of a study of "The Acquisition of Language," monograph of the Society for Research in Child Development, 29, No. 92.

ACCORDING to this study, the child at about the age of one makes his first meaningful utterances. Generally they are single words (daddy, light), and occasionally short phrases used as single words (gimme). They designate an object, a person, or a complex situation.

Many more single unit utterances occur in the following months and, at about 18 months, these units begin to be combined. By the time the youngster is 3½, his speech is very similar to adult speech. There are wide individual differences, of course.

As soon as the child begins combining a second word with a first word, he soon combines several words. His description of a cat lapping milk might progress as follows: "Milk," "kitty drink," "kitty drink milk," "kitty is drinking his milk."

AS THE young child hears an adult speak, he tends to listen to just one or more of the words most meaningful to him. He hears, and later may use, a kind of telegraphic language.

When your child is beginning to use a few words, you may just say "orange," as you show him an orange, instead of saying: "This is an orange." Later you say the whole expression, from which he may imitate with one or more of these words or all of them. When you do things for and with your child's beginning speech, you wisely talk about what you are doing.

As the child hears adult talk normally in the family, he gradually centers his attention on those words and groups of words most meaningful to him, and tends to use them himself.

When you begin reading nursery rhymes and brief stories to him, he may attend mostly only to certain words, groups of words, or sounds that appeal to him most. As you read the same rhyme or story over and over, he attends to more and more of it.

YOUR CHILD'S growth in inner response may be as gradual as the turning of darkness to light at dawn. Though the child beginning to vary verb forms may make a few mistakes as "I goed" for "I went," he gradually takes on amazingly accurate grammar if he hears only correct speech.

Perhaps nothing else can help him so much to acquire easy to correct expression as his being read to continually.

My bulletins, "Why Read to Baby and Young Child?" and "The Young Child's Speech," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Some Exercises For Astronauts Will Be Shelved

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Some training exercises for Gemini 5 astronauts have been junked because of a time shortage, a space official says.

Paul Haney, Manned Spacecraft Center public affairs officer, said Sunday that astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. do not have time enough left between now and the expected Aug. 19 launch date to complete a training schedule laid out for the 8-day flight.

"We have had to cancel planetarium star studies," he said, "and several other exercises." Practicing the proper escape methods from a dummy spacecraft submerged in water are others that have been scrapped, sources say.

Another casualty of the time shortage is individual news interviews with Cooper and Conrad. Haney said the interviews instead would be with all news-gathering agencies asking questions at the same time.

Technical Problems Hold Up Launchings

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The scheduled launching of two Sentry satellites and a tiny pygmy satellite was postponed today because of technical difficulties which delayed the shot beyond the favorable launching time.

The 40-minute window, the time during which the shot could be accomplished in keeping with mission objectives, was extended eight minutes.

The rocket came within less than two minutes of being launched when the shot was called off due to further problems.

Thousands Of Youths Stage Riots In Finland

HELSINKI (AP) — Thousands of youths battled police and firemen in one of several riots in Finland over the weekend.

Some youths among the crowd of 3,000 touched off the biggest riot at nearby Korso when they started dancing during a pop music performance. Authorities had forbidden dancing on Prayer Saturday.

One year ago — Gov. George C Wallace of Alabama announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president.

No two snowflakes are exactly alike. Flakes can be austerely simple or fantastically complex. Many have classic six - sided symmetry, but they can assume the shape of prisms, branched stars, needles, pyramids, dumbbells, or strange forms that develop when many crystals cluster together.

A Junior Editors Quiz About

NEWSPAPERS

QUESTION: How can newspapers print the news so quickly?

ANSWER: The word "new" gives the meaning of news. If we didn't know about what has just happened, we would have little idea of what our world is like. To keep us informed, newspapers get the news to us with truly amazing speed. Because of highly organized news services, such as The Associated Press, world wide reports constantly pour into the papers' newsrooms through special machines (upper right). In addition, the papers have highly trained reporters who check police stations and other places where things of interest are reported or expected to happen. Photographers often accompany them. Stories may be phoned in; film is rushed to the paper to be developed. In some cases, photos are sent right from the scene. Rewrite men and editors put it all together. The stories are set in type and round metal printing plates cast which are fastened to rollers and inked so that they will print on the paper which starts to move across them. Huge rolls of paper unwind through the presses, which can print, cut and fold perhaps 1000 papers a minute. These are rushed by trucks to newstands and post offices. As a result, you can sit at home and find out the newest things which have been going on in the world around you.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I prevent scum from forming on my freshly-cooked starch?

A. — After cooking, sprinkle cold water liberally over it. This will prevent that scum from collecting. Then, when ready to use, stir well.

Q. — What can I do about shoe polish stains on carpets?

A. — These will often yield to carbon tetrachloride, followed by a regular shampooing with soapsuds and a little ammonia.

Q. — Is there any way I can restore color to faded cretonne curtains?

A. — First launder the curtains and iron them. Then, while still warm from your iron, take crayons and go over the design, then put plain paper over your art work, and press again with a hot iron. Your curtains should then look much brighter and more colorful.

Q. — What can I do about scratches on dark - colored furniture?

A. Try applying iodine, and when this has dried, rub over it with furniture polish — and usually the scratches will be almost invisible.

Q. — How can I prevent insects from getting on and sticking to freshly - painted surfaces before they dry?

A. — You'll discourage these insect visitors if you'll add about two teaspoonfuls of oil of citronella or oil of wintergreen to each gallon of paint used.

Q. — How can I clean imitation leather upholstery?

A. — This will usually clean nicely with mild soap and tepid water. To prevent cracking and peeling, follow the washing with a thin coat of petroleum jelly.

A Junior Editors Quiz About NEWSPAPERS

QUESTION: How can newspapers print the news so quickly?

ANSWER: The word "new" gives the meaning of news. If we didn't know about what has just happened, we would have little idea of what our world is like. To keep us informed, newspapers get the news to us with truly amazing speed. Because of highly organized news services, such as The Associated Press, world wide reports constantly pour into the papers' newsrooms through special machines (upper right). In addition, the papers have highly trained reporters who check police stations and other places where things of interest are reported or expected to happen. Photographers often accompany them. Stories may be phoned in; film is rushed to the paper to be developed. In some cases, photos are sent right from the scene. Rewrite men and editors put it all together. The stories are set in type and round metal printing plates cast which are fastened to rollers and inked so that they will print on the paper which starts to move across them. New Record Claimed For Marathon 'Sing'

SPARTA, Wis. (AP)—A record is being claimed by 17-year-old Jeff Newburg for singing "Henry the Eighth, I Am, I Am," 1,001 consecutive times.

At 4:30 p.m. Saturday he and Dave Krebich, 16, perched on the roof of a drive-in restaurant and began their marathon. Dave became ill and went home at 10 p.m. after giving forth with the ditty 606 times.

Jeff finished his stint at 12:15 a.m. Sunday, quitting because he was tired of the whole thing.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Wife Seeking Help With 20-Pound Problem

The working wife must eat to keep up her strength to carry on two jobs. The hitch is, the excess food she eats to get extra energy simply piles on pounds. A young woman writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"I am 22 years of age. I work in an office where I am under tension. Since I leave before seven in the morning, I rush to straighten up our apartment, and be ready for my driver. In the evening when I arrive home, I rush to prepare dinner for myself and my husband. Simetimes he is unavoidably an hour or so late in getting home.

-:-

"I GOBBLE something fast early in the morning. Because I'm still hungry I pick up skim milk and a doughnut to eat at the office. Midmorning I'm hungry again, but eat only a cracker or two. Then I'm starved at lunch time. In the afternoon a chocolate bar seems to satisfy the gnawing hunger. At night I'm too hungry to wait until my husband arrives, so I eat something and then eat dinner with him. I try to have only skim milk and cereal before bedtime.

"Sadly, I've re-gained the 20 pounds I lost three months ago with diet pills from my doctor. I realize I must find a food pattern to regulate my weight. What is the cause of this constant gnawing hungry feeling? I am quite discouraged . . ."

There are 14½ million working wives today and, of these, nine and a half million are also mothers. The key word for working wives is organization. Otherwise the situation becomes intolerable. The working environment cannot be altered, but you do have some control over your home environment. Attitude, too, is all-important.

HURRY IN THE morning builds tension before the office day even begins. Much as you might want to have everything straightened up before you leave is it worth it—this build-up of tension? To help with this problem, will you more experienced working wives share your methods for easing into the day with a minimum of pressure? What is the key to your success in handling both home and job so as to enjoy living?

To the young working wife in today's letter, try this plan for a single week. Put the order in your day, instead of giving your all to the home. Treat yourself to a balanced breakfast. Carry along a hard-cooked egg to eat at mid-morning. At lunch have a double portion of lean meat or chicken, on one slice of bread, and a glass of whole milk. Let the 4 o'clock pick-up be an ounce wedge of cheese. That candy bar is creating the re-bound to hunger — skip it. On arriving home, sit down and relax with a cup of tea and a cracker. When your husband is late, drink a glass of buttermilk, sipping it slowly.

The greatest favor you could do for yourself and your husband is to plan two evenings a week of play in the form of physical activity. Bowl, swim, square dance - - whatever you enjoy most. Physical exercise is nature's plan for coping with tension.

Send stamped, self-addressed, long envelope for Eat To Build Leanness and Isometric Exercises. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of the Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Skateboard Vibration Starts Burglar Alarm

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Police raced to a clothing store Sunday when the burglar alarm sounded, as it had done several times in recent weeks. As before, everything was serene, even to the youngsters skateboarding by.

Then police found the vibrations of the skateboards on the sidewalk set off the sensitive alarm.
